GRAVE DIFFERENCES AMONG POWERS LEAD TO NEW CRISIS GRANDI TALKS OF “BLACKMAIL”

HARD WORDS AGAINST SOVIET RUSSIA

VEHEMENT GERMAN PRESS ATTACK

London, Yesterday.

It is evident that grave differences among the great European Powers, amounting to a crisis, arose at the meeting of the non-intervention committee to-day. The upshot, in the significant words of the communiqué, was an agreement to ask the respective Governments to furnish information relating to the treatment accorded to material destined for Spain by vessels calling at a port of a country that is party to the agreement.

Lord Plymouth, the Chairman, opening the morning meeting, alluded to the allegations received from the Spanish Government, which, if substantiated, he said, would constitute breaches of the agreement. Signor Dino Grandi (Italy) energetically denied the accuracy of the allegations.

It is understood that the withdrawal of Senhor Calheiros (Portugal) was effected despite strong efforts at dissuasion by Lord Stanhope.

When the Soviet communications were discussed Signor Grandi cited the alleged infractions of the agreement by the Soviets. He named three Soviet ships supposedly carrying as food camouflaged cargoes of ammunition, rifles and aeroplane parts.

Signor Grandi used words against Russia like “blackmail,” “provocation” and “sabotage.”

He declared that if the Soviets were attempting to free themselves from the agreement they had no right to make unfounded charges in an attempt to throw the responsibility on others.

GERMAN OPINION

Prince von Bismarck (Germany) expressed the opinion that the Soviet communications were outside the competence of the committee, as they did not follow the rules prescribed by the procedure.

The committee decided that it was premature, in the temporary absence of Portugal, to discuss the appointment of a committee of investigation.

PRELIMINARY COMMENTS
The proceedings were carried on against a background of violent press recriminations in various countries. The Italian and German newspapers are vehemently attacking Moscow.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung remarks that the obviously critical situation involves the danger of an explosion. The great Powers still have the opportunity to cut the glowing fuse laid by Moscow.

A Lisbon message states that the Diário de Notícias quotes a well-informed source, declaring that Portugal will in no case allow any form of foreign control or supervision.

NO ACTION TAKEN

The non-intervention committee took no action on the Soviet communications as no concrete proposal was contained therein.

The bulk of the British press so far refrains from commenting, though the news columns emphasise the asperities and assert that, as typical of the temper of the meeting, Signor Grandi “had words” with Lord Plymouth.

The Daily Telegraph remarks that Britain is neither black nor red and is all the more resolved to be neither after watching the events of the past three months.

The Liberal News-Chronicle suggests that the non-intervention committee should call on both sides in Spain to conclude a truce, but if unanimity is not achieved within 48 hours, Britain must raise the embargo forthwith. — Reuter.

Lord Rothermere, above, a member of the Harmsworth family and the principal owner of the London Daily Mail and allied papers, declined to give an interview to the press when he arrived on the R. M. S. Empress of Japan yesterday morning.

ITALY DIRECTLY ACCUSED

Spanish Report Sent To Britain

ALLEGED USE OF SHIP AND PLANES

London, Yesterday.

A communication was made yesterday by the Spanish Embassy in London to the British Foreign Office, that the capture by Spanish insurgents of the island of Iviza, some 50 miles south-west of Majorca, was effected with the assistance of 700 Italian soldiers and two three-engined aeroplanes, also Italian.

The communication adds that the expedition was led by an Italian, Count Rossi, Commander-in-Chief of the insurgents in Majorca, and that the transport of these troops was effected in the Spanish steamer Ciudad de Palma, on the side of which the Italian Tricolour was painted. The communication states that only a few Spanish Fascists participated.

The Daily Telegraph's Rome correspondent reports that the Italian Government categorically denies the allegations contained in the Spanish Embassy's communication. — British Wireless Service.

DISSOLUTION OF HEIMWEHR SCHUSCHNIGG TAKES INITIATIVE MILITARY FORMATIONS FORBIDDEN

Vienna, Yesterday.

A Government communiqué states that at an extraordinary Cabinet Council Chancellor von Schuschnigg dealt with the political situation. Following his report the Vice-Chancellor, Major Baarbarrenfels, and the members of the Cabinet, Dr. Draxler and Herr Peruter, in view of their connection with semi-military organisations, tendered their resignations to Dr. von Schuschnigg, which the Chancellor reported to President Miklas, who re-appointed the three Ministers to their posts. The Cabinet Council then decided upon a law dissolving all military and semi-military corporations.

Dr. von Schuschnigg informed the members of the Cabinet that all the members would be appointed by the Federal President on the Chancellor's personal proposal, and would no longer be subject to any other obligations or bindings. The members of the Government unanimously took cognisance of the statement.

It is pointed out that the Cabinet's decision to dissolve the Heimwehr could only be countered by some desperate act of violence by Prince von Starhemberg, but since the police and the army are entirely loyal to Dr. von Schuschnigg such a step would not only be suicidal but is regarded as impossible. The entire Cabinet, including Major Baarbarrenfels and Dr. Draxler, is now behind Dr. von Schuschnigg.

The move is a sequel to the civil war between the two factions of the Heimwehr led by Prince von Starhemberg and Major Fey respectively. The Chancellor has settled the problem by a swift stroke of the pen. — Reuter.

ALL SET FOR NEW RECORD

Miss Jean Batten's Fine Chance

Keopang, Yesterday. Miss Jean Batten has every chance of beating the England to Australia flight record, as she has up to midnight on Monday to complete the course.

She arrived at Keopang at 7.30 a.m., G.M.T., and will next take off to Port Darwin, which will be the last lap, over the dreaded Timor Sea. She will probably continue her flight across Australia and from there onward to New Zealand. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

ing in the Great Hall of the University, when all those present filed past a photograph of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen. The meeting was not attended by any member of the staff of the University.

Chamber Of Commerce Function

The “Double Tenth” was observed in the usual way by members of the Hong Kong Chinese General Chamber of Commerce who gathered in the offices of the Chamber yesterday morning, when a speech was delivered by the chairman, Mr. Li Sing-kui.

Tea and refreshments were served after the ceremony and in the course of the morning the birthday gift to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in the form of an aeroplane, was discussed informally by those present. It is understood that sufficient funds will be raised to purchase three planes, the donations received so far having already exceeded the $200,000 mark.

Tragedy was narrowly averted last Friday afternoon at the Victoria Recreation Club, when the bamboo companion-way bordering the main stand of the swimming pool collapsed under the strain of over 100 schoolchildren who were watching the 200 Yards Relay at the Inter-School swimming sports, precipitating the majority into the water. Our photograph was taken a few seconds after the accident. (“Herald” photo).

30 MILES FROM MADRID FURTHER INSURGENT SUCCESSES ARE REPORTED

London, Yesterday. — An insurgent wireless message from Seville states that the attack on Madrid is meeting with further success, and now the insurgent troops are within 30 miles of the capital. Bloodshed between would-be deserters and the Government Militia at Madrid is reported.

MORE BRITISH FATALITIES IN PALESTINE

Jerusalem, Yesterday. One British constable and three privates of the Cameron Highlanders were wounded and two Arabs killed in a battle south of Hebron last evening. One British constable was accidentally killed and another was injured in a lorry crash at Jaffa. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

WORLD TRADE OUTLOOK

Optimistic Forecast In England

London, Yesterday.

Sir Robert Kindersley, President of the National Savings Movement, speaking at Southampton, expressed the opinion that the recent currency devaluations were of the utmost significance to the world. Before they occurred, he said, those who were watching the international horizon despaired of loosening the knot of quotas, exchange and other restrictions. By the action of France the pull of this knot has been relieved.

“In my view the happenings of the past two weeks are the prologue to a gradual, but ultimately immense, expansion of world trade. That means an increase of wealth and prosperity. With a fair distribution, and a sane increase of the standard of living, we can look forward to a period of world prosperity which will surprise the most optimistic.” — British Wireless Service.

N.E.I. NATIVE RUBBER

Batavia, Yesterday. — The Netherlands East Indies export duty on native rubber has been raised to 52 guilders per 100 kilograms, effective from October 11. — Reuter.

ASSEMBLY SESSION ENDS

Series Of Committee Reports Are Adopted

Geneva, Yesterday. The Assembly concluded its present session to-day. In the morning it adopted a series of reports of the various committees, including the committee considering the revision of the Covenant, which has been convened for December 7. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

JIM FERRIER'S RECORD

Ten “Birdies” In Round Of 62

New South Wales, Yesterday. Playing in the close championship of New South Wales to-day, Jim Ferrier, the former Shanghai boy who was recently beaten in the final of the British Amateur Golf Championship, returned cards of 72, 72, 71 and 62 for an aggregate score of 277.

Over the last 18 holes he had 10 “birdies” and the score was 10 under par, which is easily an Australian record. His aggregate of 277 also constitutes an Australian record. Aubrey Boomer holds the Open Championship record for 18 holes, with a 61 at St. Cloud, in the French Open in 1929, while W. Lawson Little aggregated 271 for the four rounds in the Canadian Open this year. — Reuter.

DON BRADMAN AGAIN

212 In 202 Minutes In Test Trial

Sydney, Yesterday. In the Warren Bardsley-Jack Gregory testimonial cricket match, Don Bradman's eleven, comprised chiefly of young hopefuls, tied with Victor Richardson's team, made up mainly of probable Test players, each side scoring 385 runs.

A feature of the game was a scintillating innings by Bradman, who scored 212 in 202 minutes, hitting two sixes and 25 boundaries.

Scores were as follows: V. Richardson XI: 385 (Brown 111; Ward 7 for 127).

D. Bradman XI: 385 (Bradman 212; C. V. Grimmett 4 for 148; W. J. O'Reilly 4 for 98). — Reuter.

FINCHER AGAIN PROMINENT

Takes 5 For 36 And Then Scores 66

INTERPORTERS BEAT RECS.

Shanghai, Yesterday. The Hong Kong Interport cricket team beat the Shanghai Recreation Club by one wicket in an exceedingly sporting one-day match here to-day, Lee making the winning hit with a boundary off Pat Madar in the last over of the day.

Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite, whose sprained shoulder muscle prevented him from doing any excessive bowling in the Interport proper, took 3 wickets for 45 runs. Ernie Fincher 5 for 36 to dismiss the home team for 198 runs. Alec Pearce and K. Nazarin had 1 for 32 and 1 for 19 respectively.

Hong Kong replied with 201 for 9, Ernie Fincher being top scorer with 66 — he scored 127 not out and 0 in the Interport — while Capt. D. W. Persae helped with 37. W. H. Colledge scored 27 and T. A. Pearce 24, while Lieut. the Hon. G. Clegg-Hill and R. Lee were not out with 29 and 6 respectively. — Reuter.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN GERMANY

Berlin, Yesterday. — The number of unemployed in Germany decreased further in September by 63,000, so that at the end of the month the report from the Labour Exchange showed the total to have dropped almost to the 1,000,000 mark, the exact figure being 1,035,000. — Trans-Ocean Service.

Celebrations In Canton GREAT ENTHUSIASM DISPLAYED

(From A Special Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.

The official celebrations of the “Double Tenth” were carried out according to schedule this morning, amid great enthusiasm. The proceedings opened with a military review, and later in the morning an official reception for the foreign Consular representatives was held at the Municipal Reception Hall. Mr. Herbert Phillips, British Consul-General, read a congratulatory address on behalf of the Consular Corps, in which he paid a special tribute to the work of the leader of the nation, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Mayor of Canton, Mr. Tseng Yan-pu, suitably replied, thanking Mr. Phillips for the sentiments he had expressed, and voicing his appreciation of the continual help and co-operation accorded by the Consular Corps.

The Ninety Days Wonder

SHORT STORY

By EDITH BRISTOL

AT Arch Rock the big motor bus stopped and six feetone in olive green uniform under a broad felt hat-brim looked over the passengers.

As official representative for his Uncle Sam, Jerry Devon gave a routine inspection to the car, its driver, the pair of love-birds "doing" the Yosemite Valley on their honeymoon, and the talkative traveller who had been there before.

But strictly on his own behalf he greeted Dorothy Trent with a strong handshake and a swift smile that lighted up the gravity of his sun-tanned face.

"Good trip?" looking steadily down into her tranquil blue eyes.
"Perfect—and it's grand to be back again. Miss Foster, to the girl beside her, "this is Jerry Devon."

Six-foot-one in uniform bowed.
Lorraine Foster turned on the tall young park ranger her most devastating glance. Usually they fell for that glance from her glowing brown eyes, the first time.
But the bus driver spoiled the effect right then by starting his motor.

Jerry had only time to say, "See you to-night, Dot," before the machine moved ahead.

"Who is he?" Lorraine demanded. "Where did you meet him?"
"He's in some of my classes at the university," Dorothy was polite but brief.

"He's keen looking. What does he do here?"

Before Dorothy could answer the talkative traveller broke in.

"He's a ninety days wonder."

"A what?" Lorraine turned the devastating glance toward the talker.

"A ninety days wonder. That's what they call these bright young college boys who come up here every summer for three months to keep the valley from running away." The speaker smiled at his own wit.

"What does he do?"

"Put on a pretty park ranger's suit. Looks into automobiles when they come in to see if there are any dogs or guns. Dances with the girls. Swell heads, all of 'em." Lorraine listened. But Dot proffered to turn her attention from the voluble youth to the door, familiar landmarks of the valley on either hand.

How good it was to be back again this summer! To drink in the deep breaths of the fresh, sweet, June air.

There, through a break in the tree that lined the highway, was the road to Bridal Veil Falls, as the great, gray bus glided swiftly on its way.

Who wouldn't be happy on a day like this, she mused, with every leaf on every tree looking as though now from God's hand that very morning?

The talker—his name, he announced, was Tubbs—pointed out every landmark for Lorraine's edification as the bus hummed on between the trees. But Dorothy hardly heard him, lost in her own joy at the welcome scenes she had grown to love so well in previous summers.

Yosemite Falls, veiled in flying mist, tumbling down an incredible precipice. Glacier Point, towering overhead. Far ahead, at the end of the miniature world that was the valley, the massive shoulder of Half Dome, stately and magnificent. How heavenly it was!

The talkative Tubbs helped Lorraine with her four bags when the bus came to its destination.
Dorothy took care of her own suitcase.

"I hope you'll enjoy your vacation," she said to her companion.
"I expect I'll be rather busy for the first few days, starting on my work, but if there's anything I can do to make you feel at home here, please let me know."

"Your work?" Miss Foster's voice lifted.

"I wait on the table in the dining-room."

"But you said—I thought you were a college girl."

"I am," Dot smiled. "You'll find that most of the young people who work here in the summer are college students. I'll try to introduce you to some of them."

"Oh, please"—nature had already turned up Miss Foster's dainty nose in a way she liked to think of as "piquant," and now she turned it up still farther—
"Oh, thank you. But I'm sure I'll find lots of friends of my own."

"Your own class?" Dot Trent's smile broadened. "I hope so. Have a good time, anyhow." And she turned to go.

"She's—she's a waitress!" Lorraine spoke with scorn to Tubby Tubbs.

Tubby Tubbs talked more—and better—than he danced.
For one thing, he was too short.
For another, his feet kept getting in Lorraine's way and scarring her new white sandals.

Besides that, she pouted as the evening advanced, he began telling his stories twice. And the stories weren't any too screamingly funny to begin with.

Across the dance floor she looked enviously at the long, easy steps of Jerry Devon, guiding Dot Trent so surely, so smoothly among the other dancers. They had come in late, Lorraine noticed, and in their first swing around the hall had been greeted heartily by most of the other young people.

Even if Tubby's father had made piles of money in the brewing business or something, Lorraine reflected unhappily, he was a perfectly terrible dancer and she wished somebody'd cut in.

But nobody did.

Renewing the friendships of last summer, greeting the gang from college, spying a fraternity mate across the floor,
the young student dancers left no doubt in Miss Foster's mind that they were having a wonderful time of it that evening.

She—unfortunately—was not.
What kind of a place was it, anyhow, where a pretty girl with oodles of new clothes and plenty of money to spend had to put up with a partner who bumped against her at every other step?

It was an unknown situation in the 18 years of Lorraine Foster and she'd take some steps on her own account, next morning, to correct it!

WE THINK WINTER
MUST BE HERE—BECAUSE WE
DASHED
SEA—(WITH HOT
BLOOD COURSEING THRO' OUR VEINS.—AS THE NOVELISTS SAY)

WINTER
BECAUSE WHEN WE
HAVE A FINAL ROLL UP—

WINTER IS DEFINITELY
BECAUSE FOOTBALLERS—

ARE TEARING AROUND THE VALLEY.

THE WOOD SEEMED LIKE A LUMP OF ICE.

UMPIRES HAVE STARTED
BORROWING EVERYBODY'S CLOTHES.

AND BROKERS HAVE TAKEN
BOWLER
HATS.

The steps she took led in the direction of the park rangers' station at Arch Rock.

Within sight of the station Lorraine developed a sudden and acute limp. Her right foot in its delicate, high-heeled sandal went bad, all in an instant, and in unbearable pain which she tried valiantly, to conceal, the girl hobbled down the highway to the control gate.

Jerry Devon was on duty. She had felt, somehow, that he might be. He was immediately sympathetic at the sight of the girl's limp.

She dropped into a chair in the station, controlling her pain with a visible effort, and extended her slender, white shod ankle.
"Um—um—hasn't begun to swell yet." He looked at her quizzically.

Lorraine pressed her lips together, making a gallant struggle to hide her sufferings.

"I can stand the pain—I think,
but I never can walk the whole distance back to the camp." She winced as Jerry's strong fingers pressed the offending ankle.

"Don't worry about that. We'll get you home o. k. But first we'll bandage the ankle. Nothing like taking it in time for an injury as serious as this." He was looking down and the girl could not see his face as he spoke.

"Mac! Oh, Mac!" he called, and another ranger stepped from the inner room. "Bring us the first aid kit, like a good chap."

"You are so kind. And I'm sorry to be so much trouble." The large brown eyes glowed into his face.

"Not a bit of trouble. That's what we're here for." Devon opened the first aid kit as the girl unfastened her stocking. "Miss Foster, this is Mac McKenzie and he's forgotten more about sprained ankles than most surgeons ever knew. Give her the works, Mac.
You'll be as good as new in a week, at least, after Mac straps you up."

And handing over the first aid kit to Mac, middle-aged, gray-haired, benignant and fatherly, Jerry Devon strode away to the control gate to receive an incoming car.
Miss Foster felt deeply disappointed.

Lorraine was still feeling the same disappointment, three days later, when she came into the dining room for breakfast and noticed the atmosphere of tension and excitement that charged the room.

Lorraine beckoned to Dorothy Trent, demure and wholesome in her blue uniform and white apron, freshly starched and immaculate.
Her yellow hair shone in the morning sunlight as she stood by the east window at her post.

"What's the matter?" Lorraine asked. "Everybody seems excited."
"The school teacher is still lost."
"The park rangers found her sweater last night, but they haven't found her."

"What school teacher?"
rest of her hiking party day before yesterday and didn't come into camp that night. The rangers have been looking for her day and night."

"What do you suppose happened?"

"Jerry Devon says she might have fallen from one of the trails."

"Maybe the bears got her—or other animals," offered Lorraine.

"No," Dot shook her head.

"The bears in the valley won't attack a person. There are no dangerous wild animals. Jerry says. He's rescued dozens of persons. Some got lost every summer. He says usually the people who get lost are those who don't know how to hike and undertake something that's too much for them."

Dot hurried off to a party of late breakfasters and Lorraine fell to musing over her grapefruit.
All day long the excitement kept at fever heat. Guests and employes talked of nothing else. The missing school teacher assumed heroic proportions.

And when, just at sunset, the searching party came in, bringing with them a young woman, very grimy, very hungry and a bit hysterical, found on a distant trail beyond Half Dome, the entire population of the Yosemite went quite wild with relief and joy.

The nightly ceremony of the first fall took on the nature of a gay jubilee. And the crowd gathered to watch the flaming streak of fire as it dropped from the heights above the valley to its very floor, lifted three resounding cheers for the school teacher, for the park rangers who had found her and for brave Jerry Devon, their leader, adding another rescue to his long list of exploits.

Watching the fire fall, listening to the cheers of the crowd, ignoring the ceaseless chatter of Tubby Tubbs, Lorraine Foster resumed her train of thought of the breakfast table.... Suppose.... If you were sure you'd be found, without too much discomfort....

It was Tubby Tubbs who raised the alarm, the next morning, stammering with fright as he spoke to Devon at the dance.

"Have you seen Miss Foster?"

"When?"

"To-day."

"No. Why?"

"She p-promised to be ready to come with me at n-nine o'clock."

Tubby's teeth chattered. "At breakfast she said she was going to climb Half Dome, alone."

"If she left this morning and she isn't home by this time," Jerry answered grimly, "she is lost."

That was the end of the dance for Devon and the beginning of another search party of park rangers, headed by Jerry—who by rights, was entitled to devote a few hours to sleep.

Out into the soft summer night with searchlights and ropes, the rangers set forth, heading for the steep and winding trails back of magnificent and frowning Half

Dome. They searched all night, without success.

At daybreak Devon gave over the command of the party to Perkins, next in authority, and went home to get a few hours' sleep. By noon he was back again on the search, guiding his men up the narrow trails. Night came and the search was not over. Nor did it end on Thursday.

In spite of a few more hours of sleep, snatched in the early hours of the night, Jerry Devon was tired and worn and a bit on edge when he reported for duty on Friday morning. Again he headed for Half Moon.

"There's no use, chief," protested Perkins. "We went over every bit of this ground yesterday and the day before."

"What's that down there?"
Jerry's keen eyes spied a flash of colour in the thicket beneath them.

"Where?"

"Down there—look!" Devon was already scrambling over the edge of the trail, down the steep bank, following the winding water course. Perkins followed close behind him.

The flash of colour was a red sweater—and there was a girl inside it.

The noise of the two rangers stumbling, clambering down the bank made Lorraine look up with a start. Then she dropped her face in her hands and began to sob violently.

ROLLED IN AGONY THROUGH INDIGESTION

A Nurse's experience

Nurses know more than ordinary people about curing their ailments, but it wasn't until Nurse D. W. tried Maclean Brand Stomach Powder that she found lasting relief for the severe indigestion that troubled her.

"I have suffered for more years that I care to remember," she writes,
"from what my mother calls 'stomach trouble,' a very severe form of indigestion.
Many a time I have rolled in agony for hours, bent double with pain, yet not daring to move for fear of getting it worse."

"I tried countless remedies and all without success. Last year I had just come out of hospital after an operation, when I had a most alarming attack."

"My young sister, who always has Maclean Brand Stomach Powder in the house, persuaded me to try a dose, and I would not have believed that just a single dose would have had so instantaneous and marvellous an effect. It soothed as I swallowed it, and gradually all pain went."

"It is useless to try and explain my gratitude, but I assure you it is very sincere. Each time I feel an attack coming on, or I get an attack of indigestion, however slight, I fly to Maclean Brand Stomach Powder."

How bad is your stomach trouble?
Even if it is as bad as this nurse's, you can soon get rid of it with Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MAC-LEAN" on the bottle and carton.
Also sold in tablet form.

"Motherhood has heightened rather than dimmed the charm of the lovely Norma Shearer," says Max Factor.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY SECRETS

(By Max Factor)

Make-Up For Mother

MOTHERS don't have to be beautiful. They're just well, they're just mothers. What a damaging thought that is! Hollywood bears eloquent proof of its utter incorrectness.

The majority of the screen's most beautiful stars have known the joys and pangs of motherhood. Consider this imposing list: Norma Shearer, Marlene Dietrich, Ann Harding, Dolores Costello, Barrymore, Virginia Bruce, Evelyn Venable, Sally Eilers, and Joan Blondell. In this group you have some of the loveliest women to be found anywhere. Trim figures and smart grooming... and over all that soft, madonna-like suffusion that marks the young mother.

There is no reason in the world why motherhood should spell doom to feminine charm. Renowned artists have agreed that young mother's face has more character and beauty than that of a childless woman.

Generally, the first thing to show the effects of a mother's self-neglect is her skin. Those tell-tale lines begin to fringe the corners of her eyes and mouth.

These lines may come from laughing and playing with her children, but they're certainly not aids to beauty. They're there because Mother has forgotten to use her skin and tissue cream every evening before retiring. Lack of lubrication is causing the skin to crease and grow old before its time.

Maybe she has given up cleansing cream and gone back to soap with a dry skin the inevitable consequence. Modern civilization with its multitude of living extremes — from incubator-like houses to the blast of wind and sun — has made it necessary to assist the skin by artificial means. Keeping it clean and well-lubricated is the only sure way of protecting it against the forces of Time.

In using creams on her face, Mother may have forgotten one prime rule: "Pat—don't rub." Rubbing breaks down the delicate tissues of the face and causes—pouches and wrinkles. She should pat the cream into the skin and allow it to be absorbed. Thus the skin is stimulated instead of tugged out of shape.

Mother's hands often suffer—and that's bad. There's nothing that reacts more quickly to neglect than hands. Lovely, well-groomed hands are the mark of the smart woman. If Mother will keep a bottle of hand lotion on a shelf near the sink, she has nothing to worry about. Massaging a few drops into the hands after each time that they come in contact with water will keep them soft, white and silky. If Mother perfects her routine, she'll be surprised what little time it takes to give her fingers a good manicure.

Artists particularly rave about the lustrous eyes of young mothers. But even this can be stamped out by neglect. Any mother can do what every screen mother does to heighten the colour and allure of her eyes. A slight touch of eyelash make-up to darken the lashes and frame the eyes into greater relief. Another slight touch of eyeshadow to deepen and enhance the eyes.

All of these screen mothers use make-up, but as it should be used! That is, lightly and delicately... as a suggestion rather than a fact.

When many women are married, they feel that they must abandon all their former habits of dress. There is no more reason for this than there is to neglect the other phases of their appearance. Perhaps it is wise to subdue certain tastes for rather "showy" or "flashy" clothes, but surely it is foolish to lose interest in dress.

If you are a mother, listen to this: "Your husband and your children look upon you as being pretty. You owe it to them, therefore, to look your loveliest at all times. That's being a good mother in every sense of the word!"

OUR PARIS LETTER TUNIC DRESS OUTSTANDING FASHION

A BRIEF summary of the dress picture for the autumn and winter season is almost as impossible as a brief description of the seven wonders of the world.

Even calling them "dresses" seems inadequate when you think of some of the exquisite creations that have been achieved for formal afternoon wear, for dinner and evening wear. But they can be divided into groups indicative of the styles to watch for and the more important trends.

The tunic dress is one of the outstanding fashions. From tunics in knitwear to tunics in metal cloth, it's a fashion definitely here to stay for quite some time. Combinations of fabrics such as velvet and satin in tunics and metal cloth and crepe are handled so dexterously they offer worlds of opportunity for individual expressions of colour, line and fabric. Then too, tunic frocks are so universally becoming their enthusiastic reception is no surprise.

Then, the princess style in dresses, with fitted, basque-like waists, high necks and sweepingly wide, shorter skirts is another favourite. These too, are found in most every type of gown from the most simple light-weight wool to the most glamorous metallic embroidered formal frock. The pencil slim, straight frock is in favour with some couturiers, usually with wider shoulders as contrast. Shorter cocktail and dinner dresses of velvet and metallic are considered very chic. And evening gowns which feature split harem-like skirts are veiling with gowns in full bouffant lines for formal wear. Some of the bouffant gowns are flaunting short, puffed sleeves which is in quaint contrast to the décolletage of others.

Persian embroidery, beading and braid have been reinstated as trims for formal frocks. Velvet is appearing in many, many sports as well as formal clothes, with broadcloth and thin jersey paradoxically enough in evening clothes, too. There is a definite return to handsome fabrics like matelasses, broad-clothed satins and laces.

Sleeves in gowns are mostly full and some beltless dresses are very chic. Quaint basque-like jackets and peplums are a favourite of the designers, and glittering paillettes to shine like armour in the night light are sprinkled over the after dark gowns.

Furs are used with lavishness on both day and night dresses. Capes are excellent, too. The whole gown picture has been created to give women the chance to look their most bewitching at every hour of the day.

little tricks

APPLE jelly is delicious if a small piece of pineapple are distributed through it.

If a sewing-machine needle is blunt, sharpen it on the broken edge of a saucer or plate.

To tighten scissors, press a red-hot poker on the sides of the rivet. This will expand the rivet and tighten the scissors.

To remove the taste of onions, fish, etc., from knives and forks, stick them for a moment into earth. It is a good plan to keep a pot of earth in the kitchen.

Before washing a woollen jumper or cardigan, sew up the pockets with wool, otherwise they will droop. When elbows of sweaters begin to wear thin, strengthen them with wool of the same colour and weight, using a large needle and following the thread of the knitting backwards and forwards.

The handiest thing with which to wash the children is a bath glove made of a piece of towelling, shaped like the hand, drawn into the wrist with a tape or elastic. It will not slip off and there will be no cold parts to dangle and annoy the little ones.

When piecing material that is cut on the cross, to prevent it from stretching, cut a narrow piece of the same material on the straight, and tack along the bias edge, on the wrong side. Have the piecing done on the double material. When the hem-stitching is cut through, this extra piece of material can be cut and gently pulled away.

they don't. And, though their affection remains undimmed, they are not prepared to invite criticism and the consequent mutual resentment.

CHILDREN AND CRITICISM

"MADGE is the most ungrateful child!" said her mother indignantly. "I go without all kinds of little pleasure to give her a good education and decent clothes, and then she sulks like this when I want her to run an errand for me."

I looked at the child. She was crimson with humiliation, and very near to tears. She left the room quickly as her mother said, "If you don't take that sulky look off your face, and get along with that message, I'll tell your father how you've been behaving."

I could not say so, of course, but I was terribly sorry for the girl, and simply furious with her mother. To scold a child may be both just and proper, but to do it in front of other adults — or, worse still, other children — is to inflict unthought-of cruelty on a sensitive child. And almost all children are extremely sensitive.

Parents who make amazing material sacrifices for their children are frequently the worst offenders. Indeed, they are so intent on the material, physical side that they tend to forget the spiritual.

Children forgive us our stupidity times without number. But inevitably comes a day when the mothers who have been guilty of public or unfair criticism whine, "My children never tell me anything." Of course

RIFLES LOWER CLUB'S COLOURS AFTER EPIC SOCCER STRUGGLE

FUSILIERS TAKE OPPORTUNITIES

Two Penalties Against Athletic

TWO GOALS FOR SULLIVAN

The Second Division soccer game between Athletic and the Fusiliers at Caroline Hill proved to be an uninteresting and scrappy encounter, the soldiers winning by three clear goals.

The combination between Burner and Davies, of the Fusiliers, was one of the outstanding features of the game. The Fusiliers' defence was never seriously troubled, but Sullivan, at centre-forward, threw away several opportunities by inaccurate shooting. The main feature of the Athletic display was the goal-keeping of Leo Kwok-ki.

The Fusiliers recorded their first goal through a penalty taken by Sullivan. Harrison adding the second goal soon after. The soldiers completed their scoring as a result of another penalty, 15 minutes from the close, which was again converted by Sullivan.

KOWLOON CHINESE BEAT KOWLOON

ONLY GOAL OF MATCH
IN LAST MINUTE

FATAL CHANGE OF TACTICS

WHEN two teams of widely contrasting methods meet, a very lively game usually ensues. Such was the case on the Kowloon ground yesterday, where, after continuing a goalless struggle for almost the whole of the game, the Kowloon Chinese managed to secure both points from Kowloon with a goal obtained in the last two minutes, a fitting climax to an exciting First Division clash.

The Chinese were remarkably quick on the move and made the most of their freshness at the start, but the ponderous methods of the Kowloon side were equally effective and the game throughout the first half was very equal. Kowloon had the advantage in the first quarter of an hour, during which D. Knox and V. White sent in several hard shots, but they lacked decisive direction and the two able Chinese defenders were able to clear.

The Kowloon forwards, though quick, were not strong in combination, and constructive football was lacking. Most of the Chinese half-back line's efforts were spoiled by the bad positioning of their forwards. They settled down, however, after a while and the Kowloon area then underwent severe raiding. Their kicking was good, but so also was that of the Kowloon defence, which now included Bowen, late of Recreio, who is a useful addition.

Changing their tactics after the interval—it was difficult to realise why—Kowloon did not make quite so much progress as was evident, anticipated. Hoonball, on the left wing, on several occasions was unmarked and waiting for the ball, but his fellow-forwards preferred to pass short or try to beat more opponents than was practicable, resulting in the return of play to the Kowloon area. Possibly had the Kowloon halves bettered their position upfield a little instead of helping a competent defence their forwards would have stood a better chance.

During the last few minutes the

RECREIO NO OPPOSITION

The Recreio provided poor opposition to the East Lancs. in their Third Division soccer encounter at Chatham Road, the former winning by two goals to nil. Garawool scoring from a penalty in the first half, and Dixon adding the second.

MEDICALS' CLOSE WIN
The R.A.O.C., after a hard and keen struggle lasting every one of the 70 minutes of their Third Division match at the Valley, lost to the R.A.M.C. by a solitary goal scored by Harrison in the second period.

Strong defensive play featured the exchanges.

EUROPEAN POLICE BEATEN
The European Police proved no match for St. Joseph's in their Third Division encounter at the Valley yesterday, the latter emerging victors by the narrow margin of 4 goals to 3.

The Police lost the match during the first 10 minutes of the opening half, when they had only nine men, and during which time Rumjahn and Hussain completed his "hat-trick" in the second half, while Morrison, Britain and Willis netted for the Police.

SANTOS' "HAT-TRICK"
Fast and interesting football was witnessed at Prince Edward Road, where Kwong Wah were defeated by Liga Portuguesa in the Third Division match by 3 goals to 1.

Kwong Wah took the lead through Wan Kwong-yui who headed a perfect goal, but Liga scored twice through Santos before the interval, the same player completing his "hat-trick" in the second half.

AIRMEN TROUNCED
The Royal Air Force were severely trounced by the Fusiliers at Prince Edward Road in their Third Division soccer clash, losing by seven clear goals, after being a goal in arrears at the interval.

Singleton (3), Roberts (2), Tatler and Luxton were goal-scorers.

19, D. Hunt 12, B. R. France 11, G. Souza 3 for 14).

WIN BY 2 RUNS
In a friendly cricket match at King's Park yesterday the Police Recreation Club beat Club de Recreio by 2 runs.

Police: 43 (T. R. Hunter 14, A. Remedios 0 for 10).

Recreio: 41 (B. G. Paker 4 for 18, C. Pope 5 for 10).

ROBUST METHODS DECIDE ISSUE

GEORGE RODGER GIVEN GRUELLING TIME

FOWLER TWICES HITS BAR WITH UNSTOPPABLE SHOTS

TYPICAL Cup-tie football featured the clash between the Club and the Rifles on the former's ground yesterday and, although frayed tempers somewhat marred what was otherwise an epic struggle, the points went to the best team, the Rifles triumphing by 3 goals to 1. The Club never gave up trying, but they were seriously hampered in their movements by the robust tactics of their opponents, who kicked and tackled with remarkable accuracy. Had the Club not allowed themselves to become rattled by their opponents' tactics a different result might have ensued.

The Club have a real "gem" in Rodger, their custodian, and once again he gave a magnificent display.

The Club opened up in whirlwind style, Fowler taking the ball down the wing to crash in a shot which completely beat Connor, but the Club winger had the mortification of seeing the ball rebound off the upright.

The Rifles refused to be shaken by this early attack, however, and the game was barely eight minutes old before Ferguson demonstrated his opportunistic abilities by dash-ling in through a crowd of players to net a neat goal well out of the reach of Rodger.

Despite repeated attempts on the part of the Club to reduce the arrears they received a further setback when a penalty was awarded against Syd Strange for handling. Stevens came up to take the kick and made no mistake with a perfect shot. There seemed to be some dissension regarding the verdict, but from the spectators' point of view the award was perfectly legitimate.

Fowler must have been a sadly disappointed man at the end of the game—again he went through to beat both full-backs before crashing in an unstoppable drive which for the second time found a billet on the upright to rebound harmlessly into play.

The exchanges were so even during the next few minutes that the ball was rarely seen in the vicinity of either goalmouth, but Campbell eventually broke away to miss narrowly with a powerful drive just before the interval.

The resumption of play saw an entirely different Club in so far as their style of football was concerned—they adopted more go-ahead tactics and were rewarded within five minutes with a goal from the foot of Elliott, after Fowler had made a perfect opening for his centre-forward. Fowler was again in the limelight a few minutes later when he made one of his characteristic sprints and finished up by forcing Connor to make a spectacular save.

After their goal the Club again went back to their old style of play, which was not effective against the Rifles and consequently the soldiers enjoyed the best of the exchanges. For fully a quarter of an hour the Club defence was called upon to deal with a terrific onslaught, and it was at this juncture of the game that Rodger proved his value by bringing off numerous saves when his charge looked certain to fall.

It was rather unfortunate that his one lapse during the game should have resulted in a goal, but this is what happened when Hartigan accepted a pass from Ferguson and drove hard and true for goal. Rodger had the ball well covered but, although he stopped it, he allowed it to roll out of his hands into the net.

The Club became rather disjointed after this reverse, but they were far from being outplayed and the result was in doubt until the final whistle.

Club:—Rodger; Hill, S. Strange; Drown, Forrow, E. Strange; Fowler, Fleming Elliott, Wilson, Bickford.

Rifles:—Connor; Pickering, Stevens; McGonigal, Moore, Miller, Frewin, Campbell, Ferguson, Doherty, Hartigan.

ENGINEERS WIN
A very lively Second Division soccer encounter was seen at Sookunpoo yesterday, when the Engineers succeeded in beating Eastern by 4 goals to 1.

There were times when Eastern seriously threatened the Engineers' goal, but the stalwart Sapper defence handled the situation very capably.

Coleman, the Sappers' left-back, was the best player on view, and Boyling ran him a close second, at centre-half. Howlett and Darby combined well, and were given some good openings by Hurst.

The Chinese forwards worked together well, Lee Lai-lam the leader, being outstanding. Lee Chee-hung was sound in the intermediate line, while the best of the backs was Tsang Kam-wing.

Howlett opened the scoring for the Engineers, and Eastern equalised early in the second-half through Yan Shu. The Sappers then made a series of onslaughts on the Eastern goal which resulted in a further three goals through Howlett (2), completing his "hat-trick," and Darby.

Navy netted again, through Gauld, but South China reduced their arrears through Lee Pui-leung.

Towards the end the Navy succeeded in scoring three more goals through, Gauld (2), and Le Page, while South China added their second and last goal through Lee Pui-leung.

FUSILIERS WIN 4 TO 1

Talbot And Evans Prominent

ATHLETIC WELL BEATEN

The keenly anticipated premier League soccer game between the Fusiliers and the Athletic at Caroline Hill fully justified the optimism of the Fusiliers' selectors when the soldiers emerged victors by 4 goals to 1.

The play was of a very interesting nature throughout with the football artistry and keen tackling of the Fusiliers monopolising attention. The spirit and energy of the Athletic attack faded away towards the close of the initial half, Wheeler and Keating having little to worry them after the first half-hour. Grindley was outstanding in a good intermediate line received strong support from his flank men, and although the distribution of Wanklyn was inclined to be a little reckless when pressed.

The forward line combined very evenly and gave a good display of passing. Talbot, the interloper player, being outstanding in this respect. Evans at centre-forward was a keen and intelligent leader and was responsible for an effective attack.

Weak Half-Backs

The failure of the Athletic may be attributed to their weakness in the half-back line, Cheng Ying-ken not being at all impressive. Lo Wai-man and Wong Shu-ping gave creditable displays and were certainly responsible for keeping down the Fusiliers' goal average. Li Hung-ching in the leader's position was outstanding for the Athletic, but was badly hampered by lack of support from the intermediate line, while Chin Chi-fun and Lee Tak-kee in the inside positions appeared to become demoralised by the soldiers' defence and spent most of their time assisting their half-backs.

The exchanges during the first 10 minutes were fairly even, Dennis netting for the Fusiliers as a result of a fine pass from Talbot. Hughes was instrumental in obtaining the soldiers' second goal, again as a result of a pass from Talbot. The Athletic secured their goal after forcing two corners, good work on the part of Cheong Moon-wing being completed by Li Hung-ching who netted with a first-timer.

The Fusiliers quickly settled down after the resumption, the third goal falling to Evans and Dennis completed the scoring with an excellent effort which had its origin in a very good movement on the part of Talbot.

The organisation and skill of the Fusiliers, attack was too much for the Athletic, with Talbot and Evans as its outstanding members.

Fusiliers:—Rowlands; Wheeler, Keating; Wanklyn, Grindley, Taylor; Parry, Dennis, Evans, Talbot and Hughes.

Athletic:—Tam Kwan-kon; Lo Wai-man, Wong Sik-ping; Ng Tak-wing, Cheng Ying-ken, Lo Wai-kuen; Lai Wai-dai, Li Hing-ching, Cheon Moon-wing, Chin Chi-fun, Lee Tak-kee.

Navy Juniors Win Again

The Second Division clash between the Navy and South China at Causeway Bay yesterday provided good football, both teams contributing towards the high standard displayed. The Navy, however, proved superior in the latter stages and took the points by 4 goals to 2.

Gauld, the Navy inside-left, was in superb form, and received able support from Spencer and Buckland, while Wride kept well up with the game in the pivot position. Underwood was the best full-back.

The Chinese forwards were very clever and fast, the best being Lee Pui-leung and Wong Kam-woon. Cheung Shui-fai was in good fettle at centre-half, while Lau Tin-san defended exceptionally well.

The Navy opened their first half account with two goals by Spencer. On the resumption, the

INTERNATIONAL CLUB TENNIS MATCH

Britain Leading France 5-4

London, Yesterday.

Great Britain is leading France by 5 matches to 4 in the international club tennis series which commenced at Queen's Club yesterday, the outstanding features of which were H. W. "Bunny" Austin's win over Paul Lescaudron (France) by 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, while Jean Borotra, the veteran French Davis Cup ace beat Charles Mott, one of England's coming players, by 6-3, 6-4, 6-1. Reuter.

ALL CHINA FOOTBALL TEAM IN ACTION

Chinese Rest XI Not Announced

The outstanding feature of to-day's sports programme is the football match at Caroline Hill between the All-China Olympic team and a Rest Chinese eleven in aid of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's aeroplane fund. A record attendance is anticipated.

Had the encounter been between the Olympic team and the Army it would have been a much bigger attraction.

The Olympic team will probably be: Pau Ka-ping (in goal) Lee Tinsang and Tam Kong-pak (full-backs), Leung Wing-chiu, Wong Mei-shun and Lee Kwok-wai (half-backs) and Tao Kwai-shing, Fung King-cheong, Lee Wai-tong (Captain), Ip Pak-wa and Tay Quee-lung (forwards).

The Chinese Rest team will not be known until shortly before the match commences, which is at 4.30 p.m.

LEAGUE SOCCER TO-DAY

Saints Should Beat Police Seniors

Due to the exhibition game at Caroline Hill there is only a small League soccer programme this afternoon, the only First Division clash being that between the Police and St. Joseph's, on the Kowloon ground. Both teams should be fairly well-matched, although the latter are expected to win.

In the two Second Division games, the Chinese Police and the East Lancers, respectively are expected to beat Lyemun and Stonecutters, while the Royal Army Service Corps are favoured to beat the Sappers in the Third Division.

The following is to-day's programme:—

EXHIBITION GAME	ALL-CHINA	Rest of the TEAM
FIRST DIVISION	Police	v ST. JOSEPH'S (Kowloon, 4.30 p.m.)
SECOND DIVISION	C. POLICE	v Lyemun (Kowloon, 3.00 p.m.)
		(Kowloon, 3.00 p.m.)
		(Chatham Road, 3.00 p.m.)
THIRD DIVISION	R. ENGINEERS	v Service Corps (Sookumpoo, 4.30 p.m.)

GUTIERREZ SHIELD MATCHES TO-DAY

International Bowls At H.K.F.C.

THREE GAMES DOWN FOR DECISION

The First Round of the Gutierrez International Lawn Bowls Shield will take place this afternoon on the Hong Kong Football Club green when three encounters will be featured.

The draw resulted as follows:—
Malaya v India
England v Ireland
Portugal v Philippines
Scotland drew a bye into Second Round.

Malaya and India, last year's finalists, should provide the best match of the day and the latter, who are conceded a good chance of retaining the title they won last year, should again win.

England are favoured to beat Ireland, while Portugal should perform similarly against the Philippines.

The following rinks have been selected to represent the various countries:—

Malaya.—M. R. Abbas, A. Bakar, M. Y. Adal and A. R. Dallah (skip).
India.—K. M. Omar, A. H. Kum-jann, A. M. Omar and U. M. Omar (skip).
England.—C. S. Summons, W. E. Hollands, A. W. Grammitt and S. Kanute (skip). Reserves.—A. E. Silstone and W. Gili.

Ireland.—H. L. Lockhart, E. Dowman, W. V. Field and J. Cavanagh (skip). Reserves.—J. F. Lunny and M. Galvin.

Philippines.—V. Espina, F. X. Delgado, V. N. Atienza and R. Basa (skip).

Scotland.—J. Watson, J. McKelvie, J. C. Chalmers and W. Muir (skip). Reserves.—W. L. Walker, J. C. Polson, W. Macfarlane and J. Rodger (skip).

Portugal.—L. A. Gutierrez, C. G. Silva, H. A. Alves and R. F. Luz (skip).

FINAL RUGBY TRIAL

Fixtures Commence Next Saturday

The Rugby section of the Hong Kong Football Club will hold their third and final trial game on the Club ground at Happy Valley next Wednesday commencing at 5.15 p.m.

Sides will be selected from the following.

Whites:—Frost, Andrews, Russell, Chadwick, Clark, Bonnar, Sharp, Stoker, Garrod, Currie, Bidwell, Deane, Gallagher, Edwards, Heath, Butcher, Gilmore, Hopkins, Binnie, van Leeuwen, Gilmore, Cumming and Chambers.

Colours:—B. Hynes, Stewart, Paul, Walkden, Humphreys, Lyle, Reid, Lammert, Hands, Munro, Redman, G. Wilson, D. Hynes, Kistner, Copple, Holden, Griffiths, Peers, Watson, Dunnett, Curtis and Henderson.

Anyone turning out, even if omitted from the above lists, is assured of a trial. Players are reminded to bring both a white and coloured jersey.

The first matches of the season will be played next Saturday on the Club ground, the Club 1st fifteen meeting the Navy while the "A" XV will meet an Army side.

IDEAL HOLIDAY RESORT

Cheung Chau Gains In Popularity Founded By Band Of Missionaries

(From A Special Correspondent)

TYPHOONS that blew down houses, Chinese pirates who killed Indian policemen, a water supply that was not altogether safe—these were some of the conditions which obtained in the early days of Cheung Chau. Fortunately, however, those conditions are now things of the dim and distant past, for to-day Cheung Chau is not only regarded as a health resort, but it is also reputed to be one of the richest villages in the immediate vicinity of Hong Kong, with its own Police Station, Hospital and even electric supply.

History always makes interesting reading and for that reason it will be worthwhile to note that the first European settlers on the Island were a party of missionaries from Macau, comprising Messrs. Greene, Davies, Tipton, Meadows, Chambers and Fuson. According to one who is well up in the history of Cheung Chau, it was in 1907 that this party, driven out of their homes by the unfavourable weather conditions in the mountains adjoining Macau, went far afield in search of new homes, their travels eventually taking them to Cheung Chau.

Finding that the "highlands" were not occupied, and feeling that here at last they had found the ideal place to settle down, members of the party chose sites for themselves, and, having taken out Crown Leases for their respective lots, put up houses and "settled down to live happily ever after" when the typhoon of 1908 upset their plans and blew down all their houses!

It was during this same typhoon that one family had to take refuge under their dining table while one of the residents, prior to putting up a new house, prepared a "dug-out" in the hills, in the approved fashion, just in case another gale should visit the island!

A prominent member of the community, who has a summer bungalow in Cheung Chau, said that they had a good deal to thank the 1908 typhoon for, because it was a direct result of that catastrophe that the houses that were subsequently built were made of such strong material.

36 European Houses

CHEUNG Chau has grown immensely in popularity since these days, and every year at least one new house is put up. There are now about three dozen European-style houses on the Island, the majority of them being bungalows. Swimming is the most popular form of sport among the residents, but although there are about 15 bathing beaches, only four of them are used to any extent, these being the Morning, Afternoon, Italian and Sardinia beaches.

The island now has its own electric supply, though only the villagers draw on this current, most of the European residents there having their own power plants. So far as the water supply is concerned, this is drawn from the many springs on the island, while the water that is used for washing and other purposes is drawn from cisterns on the roofs of the houses.

The Police Station there is

GOVERNMENT APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments have been gazetted:—

Mr. J. Barrow to be District Officer North and to hold a Small Debts Court in the New Territories;

Mr. S. Balfour to be an Assistant to the Secretary for China Affairs;

Dr. D. J. Valentine to be Deputy Director of Medical Services;

Mr. K. Keen to be a Police Magistrate;

Mr. C. W. Haynes to be Assistant Attendant, Mental Hospital, Medical Department.

equipped with a telephone and a wireless set, and the introduction of these to Cheung Chau serve to remind one of the piracy that took place in 1912 when a party of pirates raided the old Police Station and carried away with them $3,000 which was made up of the taxes collected from the residents and villagers. It was during this outrage that an Indian constable lost his life, but I am happy to be able to state that since then no crime of nearly so serious proportions has been reported from Cheung Chau.

Governor's Visit

ANOTHER important chapter in the history of the island was the visit in 1919 by the then Governor, Sir Francis Henry May, and it was a direct result of this visit that pine and eucalyptus trees were planted all over the island. While the pines did quite well, it was found that the climate was not quite suitable for the latter species of trees, so that more and more pines were introduced in the place of the eucalyptus.

Regarded as a part of the New Territories, Cheung Chau was taken over in 1899. Essentially a fishing village in its early days, it has grown to be an important health resort for the missionaries in South China. It is ideally situated as a fishing centre, in that boats can put out to sea without any great trouble, and it may not be generally known that everything connected with the fishing trade may be obtained on the island, from a large-sized junk down to the smallest fishing hook!

It must not be taken for granted, however, that fishing is the only trade carried on there, for Cheung Chau has its own distilleries and tanneries, while the rope manufactured by the natives of Cheung Chau is regarded as first-class material and stands comparison with the rope that is turned out in some of the bigger factories in Hong Kong.

A regular ferry service runs between Hong Kong and Cheung Chau and the trip takes but an hour. A visit to the island is an ideal way of spending a weekend, and as often as not people who go there for a day's outing resolve, on the return journey home, that they will go out again at the earliest possible opportunity not for a day, but for a week's stay, or sometimes an even longer holiday.

Wise and Otherwise.

DANGEROUS

He had saved the admiral from drowning. The great man was full of praise for his action. "And to-morrow," said the admiral, "I shall thank you before the eyes of all the men."

The sailor began to quake. "Strowth, gov'nor, don't do that!" he pleaded. "They'll all murder me."

AWFUL

"Here's my latest picture, The Battle," said the young artist importantly. "War is a terrible thing, you know."

"Oh," said his candid friend, "I can't believe that it's as bad as it is painted!"

LIVING UP TO IT

Magistrate: "Why did you throw a hot flat-iron at your husband?"

Mrs. Casey: "Well, your honour, my motto has always been 'Strike while the iron is hot!'"

OBVIOUS

"I trust that we shall get along very nicely, Ada," said Mrs. Brown, to the maid who had just engaged; "for I am not at all difficult to please."

"No, ma'am," replied the maid, "that's what I thought as soon as ever I saw the master."

"YOU DO"

"I could play bridge in my sleep," said the girl enthusiastically.

"You do," murmured her partner.

NOTHING LOST

Minister: "I haven't seen you at the church lately."

Sandy: "Dinna worry about that, sir. You havena lost ma custom, I dinna go anywhere else."

CHEERFUL

Donovan was asked whether his twins did not make an awful noise at nights.

"Well," he said, "not so bad, not so bad; you see, one makes such a din that you can't hear the other."

FOOL QUESTION

"Did the ice give way under your feet?"

"Oh, no, of course not! I was swimming about under water before the frost came!"

TRUE, TRUE

Pat: "Do you believe in dreams, Mike?"

Mike: "I do. Last night I dreamt I was awake, and in the morning my dream came true."

TERRIBLE

The famous detective arrived at the scene of the crime.

"Gracious," he said, "this is more serious than I thought. This window has been broken on both sides."

STOPS ARGUMENT

Skepticus—I hear you're in full accord with all of Longwind's fool theories.

Wiseoguy—Yap; I'd rather agree with him than listen to him talk.

SNAPPY

"You don't love me any more."

"Why, dear, I certainly do."

"You couldn't love a woman with such old clothes as I have."

FILLING A VOID

Harold Hollownut—I'll be delighted to call this evening. Are you sure you want me?

Kittie Klawa—I really do. I've been so lonely since my dear little Pekingese pup died.

CORRECT

"Now you must be very careful how you answer," said counsel,

"and not say anything that is not strictly true. You drive a milk cart, don't you?"

"No, sir."

"But I thought you did. What do you do for a living, then?"

"I drive the horse that pulls the milk cart, sir."

A.B.C.

Tramp: "I've asked for money, I've begged for money, and I've cried for money."

Gentleman: "Have you ever tried working for it?"

Tramp: "No, sir. I'm going through the alphabet and I haven't got the length of 'w' yet."

PREFACE

"What a long letter you have there."

"Yes, 16 pages from Aileen."

"What does she say?"

"That she will tell me the news when she sees me."

NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE HOLDS AN IMPORTANT SESSION

FURTHER RIVAL CLAIMS

Rail Communications Severed?

GRIM FIGHTING AT OVEIDO

London, Yesterday.

The insurgents continue to close in round Madrid, but their claims to have severed the rail communications of the capital by the capture of Sigüenza and the bombing of the Madrid-Aranjuez railway is disputed. Madrid declares that the line to Aranjuez has been repaired and the traffic resumed.

A grim battle is raging at Oveido, where Asturian miners penetrated the city in an attempt to overcome the insurgent garrison. Many of the buildings are on fire and the losses are high.

The Government claims to have routed 900 insurgents near Grulloa while they were on their way to relieve Oveido, and also claim to have defeated 4,000 insurgents at Bujaraloz, a sector on the Aragon front. The insurgents claim that they have occupied Almaraz, the terminus of the railway to Madrid via Naval Carnero, and to have also heavily bombed Malaga, Alicante and Barcelona.—Reuter.

SPANISH GOLD IN PARIS

Paris: Cases of gold in Government coins are now arriving daily from Spain on board French or Spanish steamers and planes, according to the Figaro, which adds that gold has been deposited in various banks of Toulouse and Paris. At the same time, so the paper adds, an account of 150,000,000 francs has been opened at one of the American Banks in Paris in the name of the new Spanish Ambassador.

The paper is of the opinion that the action of France in taking charge of this gold plainly indicates prejudice in favour of one camp, and is therefore contrary to the non-intervention pact.—Trans-Ocean Service.

This French border guard (at right), symbolised safety to these inhabitants of Irun as they fled from the war-stricken city with their few belongings last month. They are here shown crossing the bridge which leads to Hendaye, France, where they found a refuge from the horrors of war.

OPERATION ON HIGH SEAS

Performed By Ship's Surgeon

While the R.M.S. Empress of Japan was on the high seas, four days out of Honolulu, Ng Kai Shung, a third class passenger, was taken seriously ill and the ship's surgeon, Dr. N. Beattie, after examining the patient, decided that an operation was imperative if the patient's life was to be saved.

The man was taken to the operating theatre, which, incidentally, is equipped like any in a modern hospital, and with the assistance of Dr. D. W. MacMillan, of Los Angeles, Dr. Beattie performed the operation for a perforated duodenal ulcer. The operation

PORTUGAL'S THREAT TO WITHDRAW

ACCUSATIONS CREATE SERIOUS POSITION

RUSSIAN NOTE CIRCULATED FOR PROPAGANDA PURPOSES?

London, Yesterday.

It is understood that Portugal yesterday morning threatened to leave the non-intervention committee, which sat for over four hours in the evening. The threat is understood to have been made after both the Portuguese and Italian delegates had vigorously denied the charges in a Spanish memorandum circulated to the committee by Britain. It is uncertain how serious a threat is intended.

Paris: It is understood that the French Premier, M. Leon Blum, who lunched with Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, yesterday, told him that the Soviet charges of violation of the non-intervention pact would not modify France's attitude to the principle of non-intervention in Spanish affairs. France would be prepared to accept the establishment of a neutral committee of enquiry, but would go no further. The French Government has asked the Ambassador in London to request a strict enquiry regarding the documents submitted by the Spanish Government to the League.

London, Later: Following the threat of Portugal yesterday morning to leave the non-intervention committee after a vigorous denial of the Spanish Government's charges by the Italian and Portuguese delegates, the Portuguese delegates did not attend the afternoon meeting, at which it is understood Signor Grandi violently attacked Russia, alleging that the Russian statement was circulated for propaganda purposes.

After sitting for 6½ hours the unilateral decision of one of the adhering States. The Portuguese representative expressed his inability to participate in the discussion without the instructions of the Portuguese Government, to whom he had communicated the document, after which the representative left the meeting.

Major Attlee, the Labour leader, declared that there was abundant evidence that the non-intervention agreement was not being observed. The Labour Party insisted that if the agreement's being annulled by

BLACK LEGION IN U.S.

Leader And Six Other Members Sentenced For Murder

Detroit, Yesterday.

Seven members of the Black Legion, including the leader, "Colonel" Harvey Davis, have been sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the murder of a Government relief worker named Charles Poole.—Reuter.

A message received earlier stated that the self-confessed murderer, Dayton Dean, had been sentenced to life imprisonment for the crime on Thursday.

stitutional Government in Spain must have the restoration of its right to get arms.

OTHER VIEWS

The German representative took the view that the Russian communication was outside the competence of the committee and purely a political move.

The Soviet representative repudiated the allegations of the Italian representative, and insisted on the need for the adoption of the measures to stop violations of the agreement. It is understood that the committee has decided that Lord Plymouth should approach the Portuguese Government with a view to securing the return of the Portuguese delegate.—Reuter.

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT

Paris: The Soviet Russian threat no longer to adhere to the non-intervention pact is naturally greeted by the Communist paper Humanite as well as by the Socialist organ Ere Nouvelle. The latter states that the Soviet Note provides a justification for those in France that now campaign for French intervention in Spain.

In a despatch from Geneva the Petit Parisien states that Geneva circles ask the question, whether the attempts at non-intervention are a last-minute attempt to save the Spanish Republic, or whether Soviet Russia wants to split Europe into two camps and make the suc-

LABOUR POLICY OUTLINED

Non-Intervention In Spain

London, Yesterday.

The Labour leaders, Major Attlee and Mr. Arthur Greenwood, reported to the National Executive of the Labour Party at Edinburgh yesterday on their interview of Thursday with the Chancellor of the Exchequer regarding the non-intervention policy. The executive drafted a statement which was subsequently approved by the Labour Party Conference. The statement emphatically endorses the demand for an investigation of the alleged breaches of the non-intervention agreement, and continues: "In the event of it being found that the agreement has either been ineffective, owing to a lack of the machinery of supervision or has been definitely violated, the French and British Governments, being responsible for the initiation of the non-intervention policy, should take steps forthwith to restore to the Spanish Government their right to purchase the arms necessary to maintain the authority of the constitutional Government in Spain, and to re-establish law and order in her territory."—British Wireless Service.

cess of the forthcoming five-Power Conference illusory? The latter theory is favoured in some circles, because at the same time the Soviet Union has started another diplomatic action in Geneva in connection with League reform.

The Petit Parisien thinks that if saving the Spanish Republic was the motive, it came much too late. No Socialist or Popular Front army could now prevent the fall of the Madrid Government.—Trans-Ocean Service.

DRUG MENACE IN THE COLONY

SPECIAL TREATMENT FOR OPIUM ADDICTS

VISIT TO CLINIC DESCRIBED

(By A Special Correspondent)

"We are treating a large number of opium addicts daily and of late some people affected by the heroin habit have also come in to be treated," said a well-known Chinese medical practitioner when interviewed on the subject of anti-heroin work in the colony. The speaker went on to say that it might be argued that people only submitted themselves to treatment when they were too poor to buy the drug, but he added that in his list of patients there appeared the names of quite a few people who could easily afford the money for the drug, but they had been taught to realise that the ill-effects wrought by the drugs mentioned above were so terrible that they at once sought aid to discard the habit.

It may not be generally known that right in the heart of the city there is an anti-opium clinic, and cases are treated there daily from 2.30 p.m. onwards. The results achieved have led those responsible for this work to hope that in time the work may spread so extensively as to be taken up by the authorities on a large scale, and not only confined to the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital, where a ward, with accommodation for but 12 patients, seem so inadequate in view of the large number of people waiting to be treated.

Several arguments were advanced by the medical authority concerned, one of them being that poverty is not the only reason why drug addicts seek treatment. There was one, for instance, who said he was thoroughly ashamed at not being able to take his proper place in the world. He had tried to apply for a job in the country, and the moment it was found out that he was a drug addict his application was turned down.

Another man stated that he was laughed at by his friends for not being able to go without his opium or heroin for even a few hours, and the fact that he had to excuse himself a few times in the course of a day in order that his appetite for the drug might be satisfied made it most inconvenient for him to take on any work necessitating regular hours.

YOUNG MAN'S EXPERIENCE
A visit to the Clinic proved extremely interesting. The patients seem quite happy to place themselves in the care of the doctors, happy in the belief that in a short space of time they will be cured of their bad habits. I saw one very young man, once beautifully built, from whom the drug habit had taken away everything except the bare framework of his body. He said that he first took to heroin when he "had a few ten cents to spare a day," but now he realised that the extra money he had could and should be put to better use. He knew a friend who started off with smoking opium and then took to heroin in the hope that he would thus be rid of the opium habit. Little did the unfortunate man realise that by so doing he was "jumping from the frying-pan into the fire!"

STEPS TAKEN IN CANTON
My informant told me that the authorities in Canton are doing the best they can to wipe out the opium and heroin menace, and he thought it would be a friendly gesture if the authorities here would fall in line by starting public anti-opium and anti-heroin clinics.

In conclusion my informant said that he had read the articles in the Sunday Herald regarding the efforts made by Mr. Lau King Tsing and a few friends to introduce anti-heroin clinics in the Tung Wah and affiliated hospitals. He thought it was a most commendable scheme, and expressed the hope that the authorities would be roused to action. As a start, my informant suggested that an anti-drug committee might be appointed to look after the scheme, or better still, the Urban Council might be asked to take charge of the undertaking.

THE HELENA MAY INSTITUTE

Winter Concert Programme

GOOD ENTERTAINMENT COMING

The Social Committee of the Helena May Institute announce the completion of their arrangements for the regular Concerts of the winter season. They will take place on one Friday of every month from November to April, beginning on November 13, at 9.15 p.m.

Those in whose capable hands the arrangements for these concerts lie are to be congratulated on the enthusiasm which every year they bring to the task of programme building. In this they have the good fortune to be generously backed by the first talent of the Colony, both professional and amateur, who realise how important a work is being carried on in the interests of musical appreciation and education. They are thoroughly justified in looking to the public for whole-hearted support and approval.

Much has been done for music in Hong Kong by fine musicians who, one after another, resident here for a time, have added their quota to the building up of a wide public appreciation of what is good. Love of their art has not allowed the exigencies of a trying climate to undermine their energy in that direction. The present season is particularly fortunate in the possession of some first-class performers who, with the co-operation of discriminating audiences, are capable of carrying on the torch left to their hands.

Music is especially important in a place of so cosmopolitan a type as Hong Kong, where the international language of music—as of flowers—may be the means of fostering and retaining friendly relations between the representatives of many nations. Those who

ADMISSION TO HOSPITAL
"With regard to heroin addicts my experience is that the majority do not respond readily to ordinary methods of treatment. Nevertheless a minority do show definite improvement and lose the habit so far as observation goes. I have, however, no hesitation in saying that the only satisfactory way to deal with heroin addicts is to admit them to hospital for treatment. I have admitted such cases to hospital after their treatment in out-patient clinics elsewhere and hospital treatment has certainly been more effective."

"I do not wish to decry the effects of those of my colleagues who carry out to the best of their ability the treatment of opium and heroin addicts in out-patient clinics. If nothing else such clinics do some temporary good, particularly in finding out and treating the frequent physical ailments which, as I have already stated, afflict many of the addicts and are the cause of the actual habit. Again public clinics help to awaken in the addict some realisation of the dangers he faces as a result of his continued habit. There is at present no known certain cure for the opium and particularly the heroin addict. There are methods whereby definite alleviation is obtained in many cases and prolonged observation shows that a small minority are cured."

"I again state most emphatically that to ensure the best results both opium and heroin addicts must be admitted to hospital for properly controlled treatment. Efforts directed to that end should certainly be encouraged wherever possible. There is no need for me to remind you that in the past the opium addict has been regarded as a hopeless degenerate doomed to a downward path ending in utter destruction of both body and soul—something loathsome and only to be despised. A merciful helping hand appeared from nowhere. Now the great Chinese nation in its ever increasing determination to take its place as a front rank power in the world has awakened to a full realisation of the evils which sap the strength of and destroy thousands of its manhood. A resolute campaign against the drug habit should therefore be most wholeheartedly supported. But let us not forget that prevention is better than cure."

Kind regards,
Yours sincerely,
(Sd.)—WILLIAM T. GERRARD.

FOOD "WASHED" WITH PURE AIR

Constantly Circulating

in the Modern Air Conditioned Refrigerator

Certain stored foods pass off impurities, unpleasant in odor, which are quickly absorbed by other foods. Thus food, to remain impurity-free and to prevent decay, must be kept in air that is constantly purified as well as chilled. Cold alone is not enough!

The new OLYMPIC ICE Refrigerator, utilizing SIX-SIDED REFRIGERATION, keeps vitalized fresh air constantly circulating around your food. It "picks up" odors and impurities, carries them to the melting ice film, where they are absorbed and eliminated through the drain pipe. Food odors cannot interchange!

Too, the new OLYMPIC Air Conditioned Refrigerator maintains the correct balance of moisture in the air, preventing foods from drying out. Foods retain their natural flavors, juices and vitamins.

Our Ice Service Man will gladly demonstrate the new OLYMPIC Refrigerator.

Alignment

WHEN so many prejudices gather round words that have been misused or become unpopular, there is nothing like finding a new word for the same thing. The latest invention to make a necessary measure a little less unpalatable is "alignment." It was invented to satisfy the French rentier, who saw four-fifths of his savings wiped off the board by M. Poincaré, and consequently hated the word "devaluation." His coinage had become too dear for purposes of foreign trade, and if its value were reduced it would become possible to quote better prices to foreign buyers. If therefore it could not be devalued without much political disorder, it was advantageous to align it with currencies that were at a lower level. Now quite a number of other currencies have also been aligned to the lower level, and everybody is heartened by the assurances that there will be no attempt to gain unfair advantages by aligning the high currencies to a still lower level. This is the work that should have been done years ago at the London Economic Conference that was torpedoed by a cable to the American representatives from President Roosevelt to the effect that he would not agree to anything of the sort. The great advantage is that it enables Treasurers to withdraw all the extra Customs duties that have been imposed to prevent dumping, which was made possible by sudden devaluations, but which did more actual harm by arousing fears of what was going to happen than by any actual reduction that did happen.

If "alignment" has some of that blessedness that has been attributed to the word "Mesopotamia," by all means let us have some more of it. There is for instance that unpopular word "Disarmament." It is safe to say that nobody will agree to disarm themselves to a lower level of preparation for war, because it has become a settled conviction that disarmament is incompatible with "security." But it is quite possible even now that people might be willing to align themselves to a lower scale of expenditure on arms, and only think that they had done a good stroke of business. Everything depends on the word used, and the people who use it.

Then there is this Spanish maelstrom. From the very beginning it was clear that as this was no old-fashioned civil war caused by the fact that one party did not like the face of another, but was nominally being fought for economic theories which certain States have claimed as the only right theories for the whole world, and dependent on general acceptance for full fruition, there was quite a new sort of danger that these Powers would assist the party in Spain that was most in favour of their own system. That way lay a most peculiar prospect of the manufacturing Powers supplying both Spanish parties with the means of exterminating each other like Kilkenny cats. The logical end would be that they would send men also to Spain to fight men sent from other States, and make Spain a cockpit for general extermination of everybody who was willing to go to fight there. The new French Prime Minister with great moral courage took it upon himself to act as a "marker" and invited other States to fall into line with him. Most of them have done so, and the principle of alignment has won another triumph. No sensible men quarrel about words, though words are, as a matter of fact, the most common cause of quarrels. If alignment is the "open sesame" to the road we want to travel, let us use it as our key. If the dissentient Provinces of China would align themselves with Nanking, Japan would soon align herself with the Powers that made the Washington Treaty.

There is a good deal of misunderstanding about the most recent action taken by the Soviet Government. Russia has been busy aligning herself recently. Trade debts are promptly settled, and large gold balances kept in foreign banks to help the transactions. Russia also aligned herself with France in the Spanish trouble—the only reason of the threat to supply the Spanish Government with arms if the Fascist Powers supplied the insurgents was to make the alignment effective. The object was to make the "self-denying ordinance" effective, and the method proposed was only what Socialist parties in the other countries have been pressing their own rulers to adopt. In fact the threat suggests a very close connection between these parties and Moscow. The Spanish Government has a fair complaint under International Law against being treated on a parity with the rebels, but would have a rankling sense of injustice if the alignment were ineffective in stopping their supplies.

MASS MARRIAGE CEREMONY

Twenty-One Couples United WATCHED BY BIG CROWD

Twenty-one young men led their brides-to-be before a Justice of the Peace yesterday afternoon when, officiating at a mass marriage ceremony held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. on Bridges Road, Dr. T'so Seen-wan, C.B.E., united the couples in wedlock. The novelty of watching several couples being wedded, this being but the second time this has been performed in Hong Kong, drew a tremendous crowd that packed the auditorium hall and filled the road outside, which necessitated having the Police Emergency Unit to handle hundreds of excited spectators. Members of the 12th Hong Kong Troop of the Boy Scouts and the St. John Ambulance Brigade, Kowloon Division, assisted in dealing with the guests.

At three o'clock Mr. David W. K. Au, president of the Y.M.C.A., mounted the platform, and, after welcoming the marriage seekers, introduced Dr. T'so Seen-wan. As their names were called out each couple came forward to bow to the officials and then to one another before placing rings on each other's fingers. They were then each handed their marriage certificates and made way for another couple. It was notable that the men displayed more nervousness and embarrassment than the women, which the spectators thoroughly enjoyed.

Dr. T'so's Congratulations

After the last couple had appeared before him, Dr. T'so Seen-wan congratulated the married pairs and in a short address expressed his regret at the absence of Dr. R. H. Kotewall, who was unable to be present to officiate at the mass wedding ceremony. (Continued on Page 11)

Five Years Ago

(Extracts from the Sunday Herald of October 11, 1931).

Hong Kong (J. Punccheon, A. M. Holland, J. Fraser and F. Cullen), beat Shanghai (C. W. Glover, F. Medina, C. Richards and T. Main) by 25 shots to 16 at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday to win the first leg of the Lawn Bowls Interport series.

In the only game in the Senior Division of the Hong Kong Football League Kowloon beat Recrolo by three clear goals, the scorers being Grimwood, Lanson and Simpson. For the losers Silva-Netto and Ward were outstanding.

Brilliant bowling by G. E. R. Divett (6 for 13) was the feature of the friendly match between the Royal Navy and the Hong Kong Cricket Club, which resulted in a win for the civilians by 10 wickets. H. J. Armstrong (70) and Divett (21) passed the Navy's score before being separated.

THE PASSING HOUR

BY A.N.M.

AFTER the last general election in England, the Speaker of the House of Commons, who has the unenviable task of sitting through all the debates except when the House is in Committee, made a strong appeal, no doubt partly on his own account, for fewer speeches made from notes and more of the "cut and thrust" of genuine discussion. What would he say to our Budget Debates, in which all the speeches are submitted in manuscript a few days before, in order that the official spokesman can have a disarming reply ready beforehand—even if it be only that "the point will receive further consideration?" The general public is bound to derive the impression that there is no difference of opinion about policy, and that the only question to be decided is whether there is enough money available for any particular scheme, or whether it must be postponed till a more convenient season. We are not, as a matter of fact, living in any such Arcadia. A comparison of the debate with the conversations one hears reveals that the most striking feature was the subjects that were not discussed at all. His Excellency the Governor's proposal to alter the procedure is very welcome, and if the estimates were introduced in rotation on different days we should have more time to read the debates and think about the subject than when all come together on one day and are then buried and forgotten for a twelvemonth. When the Montagu-Chelmsford reforms were introduced into India, a very frequent criticism was that the elected members were so clever and fluent that the officials who knew all the facts would be at a disadvantage in reply. Nothing of the sort happened. Many of the officials who had done good work in the background made new reputations for themselves, and derived advantage from learning what misconstructions could be placed on measures that were in themselves sound. Most of the trouble in this question of open discussion comes from confusing discretion with secrecy. The words are not at all interchangeable.

TILDEN AND VINES
THE ruling of the Lawn Tennis Association that Tilden and Vines are not to meet any of the Japanese amateurs is only another case of the absurdity of the hard and fast line drawn between the two classes of players. The distinction originated a long time ago in connection with cricket, and was based at that time not so much on any need to preserve the "purity" of the game as on a sheer difference of social class which had a certain amount of convenience about it but was essentially snobbish and nothing else. The game was entirely amateur in spirit, but there was occasionally some trouble in making a side—as happens at any time and anywhere. The only qualified players so far as skill was concerned were the "groundsmen," who looked after the pitches, mowed the fields, and did a bit of business in selling bats and balls. On a tour it could hardly be expected that the groundsmen would be put up in the houses where the other players were invited as guests, and so when a team consisted of such a place's "club and ground" the "ground" went to a local hotel and had their expenses paid. Cricket has always been amateur in spirit, and there has never been any such thing as a purely professional team playing for the sake of the gate. It can attract. Four years ago when the leading Lancashire bowler demanded from the County Club an annual salary payable monthly, on the threat of refusing to play, he was allowed to go his own way, and he disappeared from first-class cricket altogether. Some of the modern professionals have been "gentlemen" in every sense of the word except that they could not afford to give the time at their own expense, and in Australia great opposition was made to the old custom of the professionals entering by a separate gate and having a separate pavilion to dress in. In Association Football, where the team of paid performers has become an established institution there is no objection to the Corinthians, the Casuals and so on playing against professionals, as they do in the Cup most years. The object of restricting professionalism is to secure that the competitors shall always play to win, and not give a game away for a financial consideration. The idea of any two amateur players not wanting to defeat Tilden and Vines is absurd, and so is the prohibition of the exhibition games, which will presumably apply to Hong Kong also.

Embarassing

A FORMER Chief Justice, Lord Camden, had an embarrassing experience. While walking in the country with a friend, he stopped to look at the stocks on a village green. Then, curious to discover what the punishment involved, he asked his companion to help him get into them.

His friend did so—then strolled away for a minute or two. But, being absent-minded, he forgot to come back. Camden began to feel uncomfortable, and at last asked a passing villager to release him.

"No," said the man. "I'll warrant you weren't put there for nothing."

And in the stocks the Chief Justice remained till someone who knew him arrived and set him free.

BLOOD STAINS

TO identify a bloodstain, and show whether it consists of one man's blood or another's, science has evolved suitable tests. But often a piece of cloth, or something else, has a mark that may or may not be blood at all. This, then, is how they test for any kind of blood.

To a little benzidine in a test tube is added about two centimetres of glacial acetic acid. The total volume of the mixture in the tube is then doubled by adding hydrogen peroxide.

All that is then necessary is to put whatever is to be tested into the resulting solution—or, if too big, to put a spot of the solution on the thing that is stained. If there is blood present, whether human or animal, the liquid will turn a lovely deep bluey-green.

Mainly about WOMEN

Influence Of Screen

ONLY those who knew the pre-war women can best appreciate her counterpart of 1936. Even to their mothers, the stylish, coiffured, hard-riding, hard-working, wise-cracking young women of to-day are something of an enigma.

In pre-war years, mother looked in the mirror, sighed, and comforted herself by declaring that after all "beauty is only skin deep." Her daughter snaps open her smart "reptile" hand-bag, and commands beauty even while sitting in a bus. Now mother is herself taking lessons.

From where has the modern girl obtained her ideas? Who or what is responsible for the transformation of women the world over? The truth is that comparatively few people have realised just what they are looking at in our modern woman. There is something strangely familiar and yet hard to recognise, in the high-steppers of to-day. You will find the clue you seek at the cinema. Walk down the girls with the long curls waving gracefully around the nape of the neck, learn to shuffle, step and otherwise "make it snappy."

Freedom!

THE influence of the screen on the lives of women of ancient nations is, however, of even greater and far-reaching importance. Pictures of modern life in the most progressive and prosperous nations have penetrated to the earth's most secluded corners. There is Josephine Baker, beautiful coloured dancer of both stage and screen, appearing before thousands of negro audiences all over the American and African continents. Women of the cotton-fields, the veldt, the bush, and plantations can see a girl of their own colour living in freedom and luxury hitherto beyond imagination. Josephine Baker driving her own motor car.

It is significant that in 1935 local chiefs in South Africa, Kenya, and Rhodesia bought motor cars by the dozen from

The prizes at the Harvest Festival celebrations at the German Club last Saturday night. (King's Studio).

Queen's Road and you will recognise them — the Garbos, the Shearers, the Colberts — and those whose curls reveal the Ginger Rogers fan. Film-made women.

Tap Dancing

WHEN you have the clue you can pick them out at a glance — the otherwise homely little girl with a beret perched dangerously and a freckled nose to give the impression that, although she is out, she really wants to go home. Dear little Garbo! Then we have those women with a strained smile which is gradually getting nearer the real thing, dress truly feminine, and eloquent gestures which are sufficiently "Colbert" to recognise. Perhaps from the male point of view, the Shearers are most pleasing of all, for they make love in secluded corners with a technique evolved in "Smiling Thru" — a technique that is thorough, but with those elements of restraint originally established in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

And then there is a universal demand for teachers who can show others how to "step like Ginger Rogers, please." See European and American manufacturers. Now lions, elephants, and other jungle creatures are so used to motor cars that they lie basking on the sunny forest roads, and are just about run over by dusky flappers scorching across Africa.

And what Anna May Wong has done for Chinese girls! The sports films have helped her, have paved the way for pretty Miss Yeung Sau-king, China's swimming champion. Just so in Turkey — Turkish girls sat for so long on cushions waiting upon their lords and masters that they never dreamed they could take part in field sports. To-day Miss Diera Masna can show a clean pair of heels to some of the best women runners in Europe, and a sports stadium with modern equipment and costing £80,000 is being erected in Istanbul. Harem girls now play tennis in shorts, swim in something even shorter, and no mere man wants to argue the point about it all because Turkish girls excel at all-in wrestling!

About TOWN

THERE can be no two opinions about the appropriateness of the official scheme for the commemoration of the late King. Both in its potentialities of usefulness to those who have to live their lives under depressing conditions, and in conformity with the well known preferences of the late King George V., the solution of the problem is ideal. We have ourselves advocated children's playgrounds, but not with any predilection for asphalted spaces of forbidding aspect shut in with high buildings. We suggested that, as has been already done in at least one of the playgrounds already provided, there should always be an attempt at greenery and at least some flowers. The present scheme meets all requirements better than any other, and the only thing to be done now is to go ahead with the fund for the layout. The Urban Council will, it may be hoped, remember that the object is to bring as much joy into grey lives as possible, and not attempt any excessive delicacy in protection of the lawns and flower beds. Grass is better than asphalt, and every child ought to have some chance of playing on a grass lawn, even though the smart appearance has to be forfeited — to say nothing of the adult who would fain stretch himself on a bit of turf and enjoy the evening air at the end of a stuffy day.

A good many years ago — in fact in 1895 — the great French novelist Alphonse Daudet visited London, and it need hardly be said that there was no lack of young writers who competed for the pleasure of showing him round. He was easily satisfied, for what he most enjoyed was strolling round Hyde Park and sitting on a seat under the trees. He explained that to him it was a revelation that any man who wanted a breath of fresh air could just wander in and lie about on the grass at his ease. "They are like buffaloes wallowing in the grass," he said. "I like to come and watch my buffaloes." The eye of faith can see in future many a Hong Kong buffalo recovering his serenity by a good wallow.

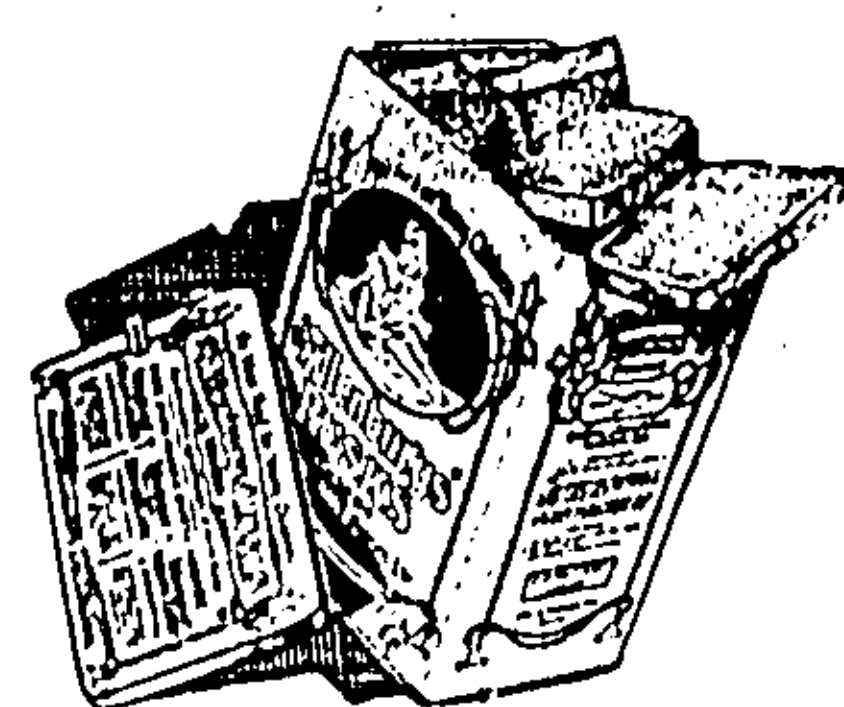

Memorial Gateways

THERE is also an appropriateness to the Orient in the proposal to imitate the English schemes, after the necessary layout has been provided for, by a memorial gateway. As a race we have not made much of the gateway as an architectural feature.

In the East the gateway has from time immemorial been used as a means of adding dignity to some place that is connected with reverence or tradition. The Japanese torii is frequently just the finishing touch of art that at once draws attention to a beautiful arrangement of ornamental trees, but it is often worthy of admiration on its own account. In China — as we can see by a visit to Canton, if we wander along to the street of the seven arches — the gate was a natural form of celebrating the great triumphs of national heroes. If we are not to reveal in a rather distressing way our national weakness for architectural design, we must take care that our commemorative gateways are, however humble they may be in size, of graceful shape and proportions. There is no such thing in these matters as bigness for its own sake. Some of the most beautiful things in the world are small. But it would be a tragedy to invite comparison with monuments that are the pride of great cities, and then to shock the eye with something mean and meaningless. I suggest that the authorities let their requirements be known, and call for competitive designs at least from all the local architects. There need be no extravagance — anything too ambitious would inevitably tend to be vulgar. But if the funds contributed will not run to something that we could admire as both fitting into the surroundings and beautiful in itself, it would be better modestly to content ourselves with a good design in cast iron.

Rice Hall Swimming Pool?

I UNDERSTAND that Rice Hall are seriously contemplating building a swimming pool, 45 feet in length, on the ground adjoining the hostel. They have everything, including funds, and are now awaiting final dimensions and the approval of the Court of the University. The swimming pool will not be regulation size, but will be big enough for practice and for the holding of social functions.

Swimming Coach From Japan?

THE various swimming bodies in the Colony have for some time been contemplating a scheme for obtaining the services of a coach, probably from Japan, who can come to the Colony in the off-season and coach swimmers. The only difficulty would be a venue or bath, although in this connection the European "Y" bath appears to be the ideal spot.

Need For Rope On Soccer Grounds

THE question of roping off the football grounds at Happy Valley and Chatham Road to prevent encroaching by spectators was brought up at one of the meetings of the Hong Kong Football Association last season and it was then promised that the matter would be looked into at the commencement of this season. So far nothing has been done and it would be well for those concerned to do so immediately as the task of the linesmen and referee is made much harder as a result of present conditions.

Darkie Chan Back In Shanghai

DARKIE CHAN (Chan Chan-wo) the All-China Olympic soccer half-back, did not remain in the Colony when the a.s. Conte Rosso brought back the Chinese Olympic contingent a week ago last Thursday. "Darkie" went on to Shanghai, where I understand he will play for Chinan or the Tung Hwa in the Senior League.

Inter-School Cricket League?

NOW that representative cricket matches between Hong Kong and Kowloon are going to be played, it is to be hoped that those concerned with running the Cricket League will extend their activities to include a competition for the local schools. There has also been some suggestion regarding an International Cricket Shield, but it is doubtful whether such a competition would be a success, what with the present limited time for the playing off of the League fixtures.

More Representative Games

CONGRATULATIONS to Frank Goodwin, the Kowloon Cricket Club skipper, on his election to the post of vice-president of the Cricket League. There is no keener cricketer in the Colony, and with him in office we can look forward to a fuller season, as he is one of those who believe that there should be more representative games for the "hot-too-well-knowns."

THE HONG KONG SINGERS

All-Elgar Concerts
Next Week

FINE PROGRAMME PROMISED

The Hong Kong Singers, who are giving an all-Elgar programme in the China Fleet Club on Thursday and Saturday of next week, beginning at 9.15 p.m. each night, had their second rehearsal with the full orchestra last Thursday evening, and if this was any criterion, the show itself will be well worth attending. Of the music to be performed little need be said other than that it is Elgar at his best. The principal work is "King Olaf," for Orchestra, Chorus, and Soprano, Tenor and Baritone solos. It contains some magnificent choral music, and the work has been scored as if for a symphony orchestra, resulting in a quite outstanding richness of texture.

In addition the Singers will perform four Elgar part-songs, each in its way an absolute gem. They are "Feasting I Watch," a setting of a Greek translation, full of vigour and broad harmony; "Evening Scene," a placid, moving fragment in the true "Pastorale" tradition; "Weary Wind of the West," in which some splendid effects are obtained; and "Death on the Hills," perhaps one of the best part-songs ever written, an absolute cameo of what such a thing should be, showing great originality and true inspiration.

Back Transcription
The programme will open with the Elgar arrangement of the C Minor Fantasia and Fugue, a richly-scored and most effective transcription of a noble piece of music.

H.E. the General Officer Commanding the Troops will be present at Thursday's concert, while H.E. the Governor has kindly consented to attend on Saturday. Tickets at $3, $2 and $1, are obtainable at the Anderson Music Co.'s store, and the total proceeds will be devoted to the St. John Ambulance Brigade's hospital for tubercular children at Cheung Chau. Mr. J. Anderson Miller is the capable conductor and the soloists will be Mrs. Anderson Miller (Soprano), Mr. Edgar Warner (Tenor) and Mr. A. V. Sanders (Baritone). The orchestra is recruited mainly from among local amateur instrumentalists, supported by a number of military musicians from the various regiments stationed here. Miss Prue Lewis is the leader.

TWO TYPHOONS REPORTED

One Stationary Near Luzon Island

A message received by the American Consulate-General yesterday afternoon from the Manila Observatory stated that at 8.30 p.m. the two typhoons were situated in about Longitude 120 E., Latitude 16 N., and Longitude 123 E., Latitude 15 N., respectively. The first typhoon was almost stationary, while the other was moving north-west.

The respective positions are directly over the west coast of Luzon Island, about 100 miles north of Manila, and about 500 miles due east of Manila.

SECOND SONATA RECITAL

Programme Of Modern English Works

FINE PERFORMANCE BY LOCAL ARTISTES

On Friday night last the second of the three Sonata Recitals (given by Prue Lewis and Maurice Barton) took place at the Helena May Institute. Those who had been present at the first recital had been led to expect a very high standard of playing—and they were not disappointed.

Clean, neat technique, with well-nigh faultless intonation from the violin and genuine artistry on the part of the ensemble, combined to make the performers, as such, fade away into the background, thus enabling the true spirit and sentiment underlying the works to be captured by the listener.

The programme consisted of works by English contemporary composers—a direct contrast to the severely classical nature of the first recital.

The first item was "A Little Sonata in A (No. 4)" by John B. MacEwen. Sir John MacEwen has only recently been succeeded by Dr. Stanley Marchant (of St. Paul's Cathedral) as Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, and in this work his undoubted scholarly musicianship was easily apparent. The somewhat "Pastorale" character of the first movement, the almost "slapdash" beginning and distinctly abrupt ending of the third movement, together with a freshness, harmonically and rhythmically, left no doubt as to which side of the English Channel this Sonata was born. Its exquisite treatment by Prue Lewis and Maurice Barton was a joy.

Armstrong Gibbs Group
Mrs. Nell Mathieson next sang four songs by Armstrong Gibbs: "Ann's Cradle Song," "For Remembrance," "Nod" and "Sussex Ways." Here again we had a thoroughly artistic rendering, with clear diction (in spite of a somewhat "dead" room), pure intonation, and some delightful solo singing in "Nod." The spacious treatment of "Sussex Ways" makes it pleasant to sing, play and hear.

Following the songs there were three piano solos played by Maurice Barton: "Vespere" by Cyril Scott, "Slow Air" by R. Vaughan Williams and "Chelsea Reach" by John Ireland.

These were played with a thorough appreciation of modern piano compositions, requiring as they do a more delicate treatment than the fireworks of the temperamentalists. Vaughan Williams always seems to recapture the old-world character, enriched by modernism, and seems to remind one of the "open" nature of his native Cotswolds.

After the interval Mrs. Mathieson sang four more songs: "Sweet Chance that Led my steps" (Michael Head), "I Have Twelve Oxen" (John Ireland), "Dreams" (Temple Bevan, formerly well known in Hong Kong musical circles) and "A Feast of Lanterns" (Granville Bantock). As an encore she gave "The Cloths of Heaven" (Dunhill), and here was heard the first slightly faulty intonation in an otherwise excellent performance by Mrs. Mathieson.

Elgar Sonata
The programme concluded with Elgar's E Minor Sonata. This very appealing work (and what Elgar does not appeal instantly?) produced the nearest approach to "virtuoso" playing in the programme. Its moody yet sincere character was portrayed admirably, and there was some beautiful soft con sordino playing in the very free "Romance" movement. With the vigorous and abrupt finish a pleasant taste, so to speak, was left in the mouth, somewhat spoiled, to my mind, by an encore "Gentle Maiden," an old Irish air arranged by Cyril Scott, which would have suited the earlier part of the programme much better.

The duties of accompanist were carried out most adequately by Mr. E. O'Neill Shaw, always "on the spot" yet discreetly in the background.

On the whole an excellently performed programme, and distinctly worthy of a larger audience than that which actually attended.

Empress of Japan yesterday, he intimated that he had no statement to make, then but that he would have something to say by the time he returned from Manila. He is not getting off the liner here, but is making the trip direct to the Philippines, where he will spend about a fortnight.

Lord Rothermere, looking very fit and well despite his 68 years, met the party of Press representatives on the deck of the liner, and, looking across the harbour, to the Hong Kong side, asked a number of questions regarding the places of interest, picking out the Hong Kong Bank Building in particular. He seemed particularly interested in typhoons and asked several questions about them. He seemed quite amused when told that the native boat people were about the best weather prophets here, remarking that "they are the people who can beat the radio."

Lord Rothermere is travelling incognito and is accompanied by his secretary, Mr. J. Morris.

Lord Rothermere is the chief proprietor of the Daily Mail, the Daily Mirror, the London Evening News and other English newspapers, and is a younger brother of the late Lord Northcliffe. He has had a distinguished career and amongst many important posts he has held, was that of Air Minister in 1917-18.

At the conclusion the procession of the married couples moved into the courtyard for photographs, and this served to increase the crowds on every roof and wall, as they strove to see the assembly of husbands and wives.

Among the guests were:—Mrs. S. W. T'so and Miss T'so, Mr. K. P. Ho, Mr. Chiu Kam To, Mr. S. S. Fu, Mr. and Mrs. Hu Po Kook, Mr. and Mrs. Hu Lup Sam, Mr. Li Kin Hon and Mr. Wong Kwok Fong.

Order Of Appearance

The brides and bridegrooms appeared before the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'so in the following order:—Tam Tit-yue and Miss Hou Hui-luen, Li Wing-yin and Miss Leung Yee-hing, Ho Tak-wah and Miss Chong Ching-lai, Chan Shu-wah and Miss Tai Shou-ying, Chong Hung-hi and Miss Ng Kwun-ying, Li Wah-hi and Miss Au Shuet-ying, Tam Shiu-hi and Miss Yui Sou-woo, Tam Wing-cheung and Miss Ho Yuk-tung, Liu Yau-chee and Miss J. POLICE WORK IN THE TYPHOON

Governor's Special Commendations

CIRCULAR ISSUED TO LOCAL FORCE

The Inspector-General of Police has issued to the members of the Police Force, the following message from H.E. The Governor:—

His Excellency the Governor conveys to all officers and men of the Hong Kong Police and of the Hong Kong Fire Brigade his high appreciation of, and congratulations upon, their splendid courageous work during the typhoon on August 17. Perusal of reports on the work of all have afforded great pleasure. It is not possible to detail the efforts of all individual men, but His Excellency desires to mention specially:—

1. The Officer in Charge (A.S.I. Olivier) and personnel of No. 1 Police launch in assistance to the s.s. Sunning in Junk Bay.

2. Deputy Superintendent J. C. FitzHenry and members of the Fire-Brigade and Ambulance Staff engaged at the House collapse at No. 35, Jardine's Bazaar.

3. The Officer in Charge (P.S.A.127 Headridge) and personnel of No. 4 Police launch in rescue of the crew of a drifting steam launch in Tsun Wan Bay.

4. The Officer in Charge (P.S.A.127 George) and personnel of No. 3 Police launch in rescue of a Chinese male, and successful handling of their launch against a drifting junk.

5. L.S.A.182 Dall and staff of Stanley Police Station for meritorious work in a serious, matched collapse.

6. S.I. Hynes, Officer in Charge of Tsun Wan Police Station, in the rescue of Indian Lance Sergeant B54 Badar Din from a collapsed house and transporting him to hospital.

Commendations

In reference to the above His Excellency is pleased to award his Commendation to the following officers:—

A.S.I. Olivier
A.S.A.110 Hughes
Seaman W6 Li Tai Seaman W48 Fung Po
Seaman W119 Cheng Choi
Seaman W88 Lai Ting.

of No. 1 Police launch for courage and meritorious work in manning the launch's pulling boat and effecting rescue of passengers from the stranded s.s. Sunning.

L.S.A.10 Sergeant for plucky initiative and strenuous rescue work at a house collapse at No. 35, Jardine's Bazaar.

"DOUBLE TENTH" IN CANTON

OFFICIAL CEREMONIES TAKE PLACE

BRITISH AMBASSADOR FETED BY GENERALISSIMO

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday.
To-day is the 25th National Day of the Republic of China. All Government offices, schools, public organisations and shops are closed for a holiday. Though Kwangtung is the native place of the originator of the Republic, the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and the place where the Chinese revolution started, the province has not been united to the Central Government in the strict sense for the last 24 years. This is the first Double Tenth on which the people of Canton have had the chance to celebrate the unification of China, and the absolute prohibitions of gambling and opium-smoking.

At 8 o'clock this morning a large gathering of people, including party, military and political officials, teachers and students and representatives of all the public bodies, are meeting in the Sun Yat-sen Memorial Hall, where the celebrations are to be held. General Yu Hon-mow, Commander-in-Chief of the 4th Group Army and concurrently Pacification Commissioner of Kwangtung Province, will take the salute during the Military Review at Yenteng at 8.30 a.m. Later at 11.30 a.m., the Mayor of Canton, Mr. Tseng Yan-pu, will give a dinner party to the Consular bodies at Shamen at the Municipal Reception Hall. Besides, the restaurants and places of amusement are all booked for private celebrations.

At 3 p.m. yesterday the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang invited Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen and Lady Knatchbull-Hugessen and their daughter to a dinner party at the Central Military Academy. Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Kung and Mr. and Mrs. Chang Chun were present. Sir Hugh and Lady Knatchbull-Hugessen left the Academy at 10 p.m.

MARINES AT HONGKEW

Mr. Wu Teh-chen lodged another strong protest against the Japanese marines' patrolling at Chapel, in Chinese territory, yesterday. It is reported that the Japanese blue jackets resumed patrolling in Hongkew and Chapel on Thursday.

The Japanese authorities have sent a protest to Mr. Yang Wing-tai, the Chairman of the Hupei Provincial Government, against the incident of a bomb being found in a Japanese drug and book store in Hankow. It is stated that the shop is in Chinese territory.

SOUTH-WEST REGIME

RECENT REVOLT EXAMINED

INTERESTING BOOKLET PUBLISHED

"Reflections of the Recent Canton Revolt and After" is the title of a critical, authoritative and timely brochure dealing with the causes and the collapse of the South-west Movement last June, which has been published by Mr. K. B. Vaidya, Editor-in-chief of the Canton Daily Sun and the Canton Truth, who has for many years been a keen observer of Chinese politics.

In this interesting little book, the author briefly introduces the history of the Canton-Nanking dispute, and dwells specially on their strained relations during the past two years.

The preface states clearly the writer's policy, which has all along been for a "Unified China" under one Government—the Central Government. Besides the 12 articles dealing with the actual position and rehabilitation of the Southern provinces, a note on the Kwangsi settlement and its effect, and views on a "Unified China," there are a series of leading articles which were originally written for the Canton Daily Sun but had been censored during the reign of General Chen Chi-tang.

The book is published in English, with translations in Chinese, and is illustrated with over 40 photographs of some of the prominent Chinese leaders. On the cover of the book is a portrait of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, while the back cover portrays Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. A very interesting publication, the book gives an insight into the political history of the South-West Regime.

DANCING ON THE "ROOF"

Week-End Functions Big Success

MEXICO AND HAWAII AT THE GLOUCESTER

Bob and Bert at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden, playing the piano as only these two popular artists are capable of doing—Andrew and Sykes at "The Gripps," dancing their way into everybody's heart—hundreds of loyal "regulars" in both places—that was the position which obtained at the Hong Kong Hotel last night, when the usual week-end gala dances were held.

The show at the Roof Garden did not come to an end until 2 a.m., but those on the first floor had to "call it a day" at 1 a.m., only they did not. They just went upstairs, where they continued their revelry for another hour.

It was good fun, though, while it lasted, and everybody was in such good form. Some had come from the races, and many others, after a day's outing, taking the opportunity of spending the somewhat warm "Double Tenth" on the various beaches on the Island and Kowloon.

Hula-Hula And Carioce
Hong Kong was undoubtedly en fête last evening, for, despite the many people at the Hong Kong Hotel, there must have been something like 400 guests at the Gloucester week-end gala. The Carioce, Hula-Hula and modern ballroom dancing, all in the same evening, appear to be quite a tall order, but these three very pleasant forms of diversions were there for the asking, up on the eighth floor of the Gloucester.

The Gloucester Cossacks, under the able conductorship of "Pop" Gellman, threw themselves heart and soul into their task of providing the dancers with music of the best quality, and the result may easily be imagined.

Nina and Jose, the two Mexican dance marvels, who scored such tremendous success last week-end, were again to the forefront with dances from their native Mexico, while Kail's Hawaiian Troubadours again delighted with songs and dances that were given in the true Hawaiian fashion. They performed so well that the guests were reluctant to bid them "Aloha" when it was time to depart, the evening's fun coming to a termination at 2 a.m.

PRIME MINISTER'S HOLIDAY

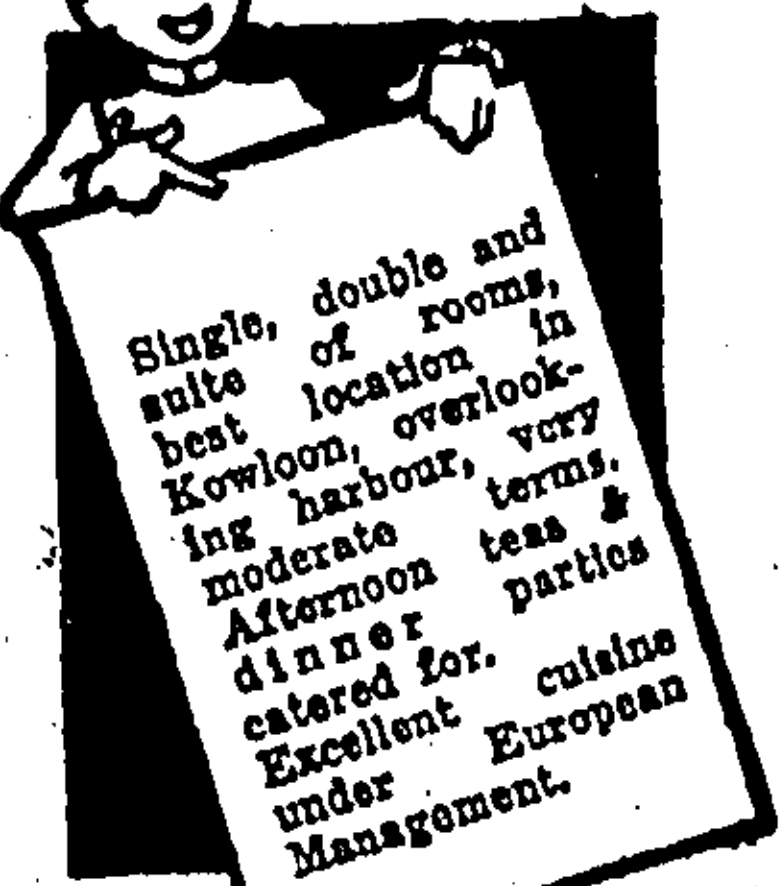

London, Yesterday.—The Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, concludes his holiday this week and is expected to return to No. 10 Downing Street to resume his duties on Monday. Between then and the opening of Parliament a series of Cabinet meetings will be held, the first of which will probably take place on Wednesday next.—British Wireless Service.

CORRESPONDENCE

Matters African

(To The Editor, "Sunday Herald")

Sir, — Even Jove, we are told, nods at times; and I noticed a curious error in the "Notes and Comments" in the last issue of the Sunday Herald, the writer of which generally talks so interestingly and accurately of matters African. Here he speaks of Kisumu as the terminus of the German-built railway which starts at Dar-es-Salaam and as being near the spot where H. M. Stanley met Dr. Livingstone in 1871.

I had the pleasure of greeting the great missionary-explorer with the now famous phrase "Dr. Livingstone, I presume," at Ujiji, on Lake Tanganyika, about four miles from Kigoma, where the railway from Dar-es-Salaam comes to an end. The harbour of Ujiji, partly owing to silt and partly to the lowering of the level of the lake, is now dry land and Kigoma, which can accommodate steamers of considerable draught, has taken its place. It is a far cry from Ujiji to Kisumu, however.

I am, Sir, etc.,
HENRY M. STANLEY.

HIS JOB COMES FIRST

Marriage Ceremony Postponed

That a job is far more important than a wife is the opinion of Leung Kau-ko, who was supposed to have married Miss Soo Fang-mei at the Mass Marriage yesterday afternoon.

Leung and Miss Soo registered for marriage a few months ago and attended all the lectures at the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association. Everything was prepared for the union of the two families.

A few days ago Leung received a letter from his brother in Amoy, who urged him to sail for Amoy to take up a post in one of the local firms. The letter stressed the importance of sailing immediately, otherwise the post would be taken by somebody else.

League Committee's Report

Geneva, Yesterday.
 "Never since the abandonment of the gold standard by Britain have we found ourselves in a situation which is so clear and so rich in hope for the future and in immediate possibilities," states the League Economic Committee's report, unanimously adopted yesterday. The Committee asks the Government not to confine themselves to the first measures by which they have accomplished the new monetary laws, but to enter into negotiations at the earliest possible moment, with a view to overhauling their whole commercial policy. Thus no suggestion as to a fresh economic conference is made, but the matter is left open for negotiation between the Powers concerned.

CZECH CROWN

Prague: The Government has fixed the gold content of the crown at 31.31 milligrammes, representing devaluation of 16 per cent.—Reuter.

REBEL ATTACK ON TANKS

Another Engagement in Palestine

STRIKE MAY BE CALLED OFF

Jerusalem, Yesterday.

The Scots Fusiliers, the Bedford and Hertford and the Lincoln are engaged in combating the hills and ravines between Tulkarm and Nablus hunting rebels, following an engagement in the vicinity on Thursday, when rebels heavily attacked patrolling tanks. The British forces returned the fire, and it is believed that 15 Arabs were killed or wounded. Two tanks broke down and spent the night in the open, guarded by four others, which rushed to the rescue.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

CALLING OFF THE STRIKE?

Jerusalem: A joint conference between the first group of the Arab national committees and higher Arab committee unanimously accepted the proposed Arab rulers' appeal in connection with the termination of the strike. The text of the appeal, together with a manifesto, will be issued following a further conference with three other groups of national delegates.—Reuter.

ANTI-STALIN PLOT

Prominent People Arrested

"SUNDAY HERALD" SPECIAL

Paris, Yesterday.
 A new plot against M. Stalin has been discovered in Moscow, according to the Matin. Among those arrested in this connection are the former Ambassador to London, M. Sokolnikoff, the Ukrainian Soviet Leader, M. Kotshubinski, and the former director of the Soviet trade delegation to France, M. Platakoff.—Trans-Ocean Service.

LORD HARTINGTON IN SINGAPORE

Naval and Air Bases Visited

London, Yesterday.
 The Marquess of Hartington, Under-Secretary of State for the Dominions, on a visit to Australia to attend the centenary celebrations in South Australia, arrived in Singapore yesterday. He will inspect the air and naval bases in Singapore and the Malay Peninsula before continuing his journey to Australia.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Messrs. Harriman's Weekly Report

Messrs. G. A. Harriman & Co.'s weekly share report and market review, issued at noon yesterday states:—
 Much quieter conditions have prevailed in all markets, during the last seven days than for many weeks past. Locally the market has been disturbed by political happenings up North, but with the latest news from Shanghai reassuring, a late improvement has set in and the tendency, on the eve of the "Double Tenth" holiday weekend, is decidedly firmer, with the many buying enquiries difficult to fill.

Manila has also experienced the quietest period in months and brokers down there must have enjoyed a much needed respite after weeks of driving activity. Although quiet, quotations have been well maintained, and it appears likely that the next movement will again trend upwards, for there is little sign of weakness except among a few of the poorer stocks.

Our leading utility shares have eased off slightly, Hong Kong Electric close around 54½ middle—but China Lights (old) are above their lowest level for the week at 14.75 cash and 15.40 December. Telephones (old) are available at 29½ and the New shares at 11½ with 11 bid. Trams have kept steady, with buyers bidding 12.60 and small business transacted at 12.65. Wharves have eased to 11.4 and Provident (old) have fluctuated between 2.17½ and 2.2, closing around 2.20. The new shares were dealt in at 20 cts.

Hong Kong Docks are available at 13.75. Hong Kong Lands are nominally quoted round 40 and Humphreys at 39.50. Cements are wanted at 11.60. Ropes offer at 3.80 without attracting buyers. Hong Kong Hotels have been actively traded in and large quantities were taken at 6 and 6.10, cash and 6.20 November & December buyers bidding 6.00 at close for cash and 6.25 December. Hong Kong Realty have subsided to a nominal quotation of 5.75 middle.

Among mining shares Rauba are again prominent, the improvement in the sterling price of Gold to 142s per oz., being very favourable to this company. There are buyers locally at 12. Philippine gold mining shares are without much change over the period closing quotations for the principal stocks being rather below those obtaining at this time last week. Small local business was done in Antamoks between 5.80 and 6.00 but the Manila price is maintained at an equivalent of 6.20. Marsman Investments Ltd. had a spectacular rise from 39/6 to 44 during the week.

Atoks can be taken at 1.10 at which figure there are good buyers. Banguis exchanged at 69 cts., Benguet Explorations at 42½ cts. and Consolidated Mines at 10 cts. Demonstrations have continued steady and close with buyers at 1.62 after transactions early in the week at 1.65. The September output from this mine was 114,000 which is some 12,000 better than for August. Big Wedge have kept steady at near 82 cts. but Suyocs have been rather neglected and have consequently eased to 1.22. San Mauricio have shaded off to 6.10 and United Paracales risen to 3.70. Paracales Gumaus have been a feature of strength, and have put on 30 cents to close at 1.60. A large business was done in this share. Northern Mines were dealt in at 61 cts. and Santa Rosa at 17½ cts. At close the Hong Kong market may be described as quietly steady with an upward movement like to set in after the holiday. Manila is quiet but very steady.

PERSONALIA.

Miss B. Blake left for England last week. While here she stayed at the Peninsula Hotel, (King's Studio).

The Acting Puisne Judge, Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, who is away on leave at the moment, together with Mrs. Hayden, is due to return to the Colony on the 21st inst. by the s.s. Sarpidon, by which vessel they are doing the round trip to Shanghai and Japan.

Mrs. Dulcie G. Hon. the well-known Australian Chinese woman journalist, is expected to arrive in the Colony towards the end of the month. She will probably stay here for some time before returning to Sydney, having already visited Shanghai and Japan.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

The importance of hats can't be over-emphasised in adding up to chic — and you'll want to see PAUL RENNET'S varied and versatile selection before you decide on anything not quite so good. You'll see everything there, from the tall hats with still higher shooting feathers that give the appearance of heads high and chins up, to tiny, forward thrusting bonnets decorously culled about by plumes — hats imbued with imagination! And then — real news! — the first wholly knitted suits I've seen in town — smart, unusual, lovely versions of the costume suit — just what the discriminating woman will want. And cardigans, beautifully fitting, that must have a definite place in your Autumn wardrobe.

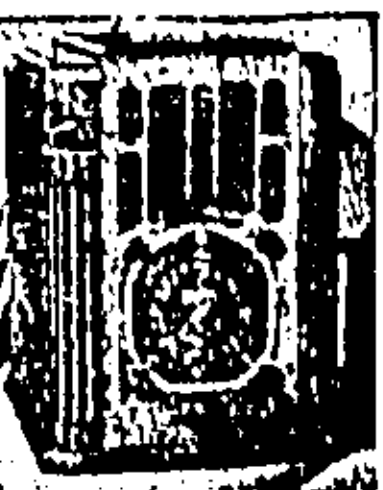

A little early to think of 1937? You'll think otherwise when you've seen the delightful little calendars on sale at BREWER'S BOOK-SHOP. They are just what your friends overseas will like — picturesque, with a real Hong Kong air about them. And what of the new books? A lot more of the Canterbury Classics — books that not only read well but are beautifully bound. A new book by Jeffery Farnol, "A Pageant of Victory," in his quaintly attractive style that is so well liked, — an event — a new book by Baroness Orczy, "Sir Percy Leads the Band." Sir Percy at his best! More active than ever, more clever. You'll want to have that.

Suede, antelope and fur are essential parts of the sparkling new hat picture. Little caps that nestle on one side of the head, vie with bonnets tied with circ ribbon. Turbans twisted in the Egyptian manner, hats which look like the headgear of picturesque old pirates, off the face bonnets, skull fitting felts with one severe feather their only adornment, all of these things are in the new season spirit. . . . and all of them are to be found at LANE, CRAWFORD'S. Their selection will give every woman an opportunity to be-hat herself with individual becomingness. And then—if you want the perfect finish to your autumn frock—see LANE, CRAWFORD'S grand selection of belts and take your choice!

You may think a lot about your beauty preparations, the fineness of your linens, the perfect freshness of your foods—but have you ever stopped to think about your drugs? It's high time to begin! For when you consider your health and your beauty, the freshness of your drugs is as essential as the freshness of your food. Yes, the scientists are there to back me up! They have proved that fresh drugs correctly mixed are necessary for best results—and you know and your doctor knows that the GRAND DISPENSARY is the place to rely on. There's no time in life to run risks!

You're still asking about a radio . . . when we've told and told and told. But we're only too happy to repeat. All you have to do is visit the INTERNATIONAL RADIO SALES AND SERVICE, 27 Hankow Road, Kowloon—and your problem is solved. Not only will you get the finest radio on the easiest plan in the Colony, but you ensure having your radio repair work done by qualified British technicians, your radio and tubes tested in your own home and, where possible, repaired without taking away your radio. And not only the private house, but hotels, canteens, messes, H.M. Ships and merchant vessels are visited periodically for testing radios and equipment.

MR. R. A. D. Forrest, who is attached to the Colonial Secretariat, is due to go away from the Colony for a short holiday in the very near future. Accompanied by Mrs. Forrest, he will make the trip to Peiping, leaving Hong Kong on the 16th inst. They will be away about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Miller, two well-known figures in local music circles, will be leaving for Home in the course of the week. Mr. Miller had been conductor of the Hong Kong Chinese Choral Society for some time and after his departure that post will be taken by Mr. Lindsay Lafford.

The Hon. Mr. Stanley Dodwell, who had been holidaying in the North, has returned to the Colony again, looking very fit after his respite from work. His daughter, Miss Anne Dodwell, together with her cousin Miss Pamela Dodwell, has also come back, both looking extremely well.

Mr. Li Tse Fong, manager of the Bank of East Asia, and one of the most popular Chinese owner-members of the Hong Kong Jockey Club, celebrated his birthday last Friday, while Mr. Lo Chung Wan, another prominent member of the Chinese community, had his anniversary on Wednesday. Mr. Lo is the proprietor of the Netherlands India Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Reich, of Manila, who are now on a visit to the Colony, gave a dinner party at the Hong Kong Hotel last Monday night, among those present being Mr. and Mrs. C. A. L. Rickett and Mr. and Mrs. H. Neilson. After dinner the party went on to the Ball at Club Lusitano.

Mrs. Chassels, wife of Mr. T. R. Chassels of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, Ltd., will be going away on Home leave shortly. She is booked to sail by the s.s. Sarpidon on the 21st inst., and we understand she will be away for some months. (King's Studio).

A group taken at the "Harvest Festival," which proved an outstanding success at the German Club last Saturday.

Mr. H. E. Strange, who is in charge of the library at the Colonial Secretary's Office, is shortly due for casual leave. He hopes to be able to find the time to make the trip to Japan or North China.

Mr. Andrew Tse, the manager of the Clover Flower Shop, who had been on a business trip to Manila, is back in town again. Mr. Tse had been away for about a fortnight, combining business with pleasure in Manila.

Miss Ivy Chanalloy, of the Hong Kong and China Gas Company, will be leaving shortly for a trip to Manila and will, we understand, be away for some time.

Frau M. Hess, wife of the Nazi Party Leader in Hong Kong, photographed in costume at the "Harvest Festival" last Saturday.

A WEDDING of considerable interest will take place on the 31st instant when Miss Irene Deacon becomes the bride of Mr. Arthur Braude of the Hong Kong Telephone Company. Following the Church ceremony a reception will be held in the Hong Kong Hotel, invitations for which have already been issued.

Mrs. Paterson, wife of the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, head of the well-known firm of Messrs. Jardine Matheson and Company Ltd., has returned to the Colony from her prolonged holiday in Shanghai, Tientsin and North China. Mrs. Paterson was amongst the many arrivals in the Colony by the s.s. Hseng last Thursday.

The many admirers of Miss Nee Sa Long, whose broadcast from Z.B.W. about a fortnight ago was so well received, are enquiring when she will be on the air again. Miss Long is staying with her sister, Mrs. Ernest To, at Pokfulam, and since her arrival in the Colony she has had a very busy time, but it is to be hoped that she will entertain us again very shortly.

The many friends of Miss May Cheung, who left the Colony early in the year for England to further her studies, will be glad to hear that she is due to return here next month. In a recent letter to a friend here, Miss Cheung stated that she will complete her course by the end of this month and hopes "to catch the first boat back to China."

MISS Audrey Steele, who has always taken a prominent part in all the European Y.M.C.A. amateur theatricals, has signified her willingness to play in "Jack and the Beanstalk," which will be given during the Xmas celebrations. Many of the Colony's leading amateurs will also be taking part and the production promises to be a tremendous success.

The Misses Zaida and Elvira Barros were amongst the many ladies who attended the Portuguese National Day reception at Club Lusitano last Monday. (King's Studio).

MR. E. P. H. Lang, Registrar at the Supreme Court, who had been holidaying in Japan and North China, has returned to the Colony and has resumed duties. He flew down from Shanghai to Canton and said that he had a marvellous trip. Though Mr. Lang had done a considerable amount of flying, this was the first time he had travelled by air in China.

Miss Noreen Cooper, who played "Alice" with distinction in "Dick Whittington," presented at the European Y.M.C.A. last year, will again take part in "Jack and the Beanstalk," which will be given this Christmas. Miss Cooper is one of the staunchest supporters of amateur theatricals at the "Y."

Mr. Aw Boon-haw, the well-known philanthropist, who recently paid a visit to the Straits Settlements, where he has very extensive business interests, returned to the Colony by the s.s. Potadam during the week and has again taken up residence in his palatial mansion on Tai Hang Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Griffin, the newly married couple from Australia, who chose Hong Kong as the ideal spot in which to spend their honeymoon, have left for a visit to Shanghai and Japan. They have been so delighted with their stay here, however, that they will be coming back for another fortnight's visit before finally returning to Australia.

Mr. H. C. Lee, who is with the well-known firm of solicitors, Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, left the Colony last Tuesday by the s.s. President Hoover. He will be spending most of his time in Nanking and will be away for a couple of months.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga and the Rt. Rev. Bishop Valente photographed last Monday at the Portuguese National Day Reception. ("Herald" photo).

Miss Elizabeth Lau, a popular member of the Chinese younger set. (King's Studio).

Mr. J. Rondon, who is head of the firm bearing his name, in Haiphong, paid a short visit to the Colony during the week, but has since left again, visiting, we understand, Canton and Macau before returning to Haiphong.

Capt. I. J. Lossius, the Grand Old Man of Cheung Chau, who only two weeks ago celebrated his 83rd birthday, is a patient in the Matilda Hospital, resting a bad foot. His many friends will be glad to learn, however, that the complaint is only a slight one and is not considered serious.

LITTLE NOTES of Great Importance

Here's a date for every woman of fashion to make a note of . . . November 12th. You'll be seeing gowns such as, in all probability, you've never seen in Hong Kong before. It's MAIZEE'S of course . . . they are giving a Mannequin Parade in the Gloucester Bldg. . . . and believe me its going to be an outstanding affair—quite the season's event. First there'll be bridge, mah jong and tea—and all in connection with the most useful Society in town—the Society for the Protection of Children. And what good things are being stored away for the Parade! It's all very secret of course . . . I can only give you a hint . . . But certainly you're going to see the peak of everything!

Do you know that worms are a real danger to your children in Hong Kong? And certainly they are nothing to be light about! They cause your little one to cry for no apparent cause, to be feverish, restless, uneasy in bowels and stomach—and the result? Paleness, a yellow complexion, and a very variable appetite. And however careful you are of your child's diet, you can never be sure—children eat so indiscriminately. The only thing to do is to give WATSON'S WORM BONBONS regularly. Not only do they expel worms, but they exercise a tonic effect—and they taste good! Only 8 cents each.

This season's fashions are imbued with more imagination, more flattery and more actual drama than we've had at our disposal for a decade. You'll understand that when you've seen DOLLY VARDEN'S new evening gowns. You have never imagined anything more subtly sophisticated than their velvet gowns, in rich plum shades, royal blues, and burnished rust colours, or in shades of exciting contrast. They spell luxury, are completely new and unexpectedly different. And then . . . in taffeta . . . bewitching sleeves that fly and flare. A skirt that sweeps into dramatic fullness at your feet perhaps a black taffeta with fitted bodice and uneven hemline faced in brilliant red . . . Things you must see.

You love to have a good table—it is one of your prides as a woman. Then introduce the Ema brand Fruit Butters, Jellies, Jams and Marmalades at once! You can't imagine what an improvement on the ordinary jams they are! Pure, rich, retaining the individual flavours of the fresh fruits: of the Pear, Apple, Lemon, Apricot, Fig, Pine-apple, Peach—and that's only naming a few. They'll make your family sit up and take notice when you serve cakes, tarts, and waffles! And the attractive glass jars in which the EMA products are packed are really an added decoration to the table.

Have you been playing the shopbound? Running from shop to shop selecting the pluperfect for your new season's wardrobe? And what about those feet—tired and sore all to early in the day? Yes, there's nothing harder on the feet than shopping. But don't worry—there's a cure and very little to it really . . . You simply apply NOXEMA to your feet and all's well. Not only will it cure tired feet—but prevent them. And you'll need to have it at hand all through the winter with those new heels, so fantastically high, so good to look at, but so hard on the feet. And NOXEMA soothes sunburn, cures baby's rash—the real family friend.

BEAR CLAW WINS BUT DISQUALIFIED FOR BUMPING AND BORING

DIANA BAY SURPRISES

NIGHT VIEW-RANGER "DOUBLE"

MR. W. H. CHOY RIDES HIS TENTH WINNER

KING'S BOUNTY CAUSES UPSET

THE outstanding event at the Eighth Extra Race Meeting, held at Happy Valley yesterday, was the disqualification of Mrs. L. Dunbar's Bear Claw (Mr. D. Black) after it had won the Kwangsi Handicap for "B" Class ponies over six furlongs. A protest was successfully lodged after the race and the stake money was awarded Rose Queen, with Cyclamen Bay and King's Justice second and third respectively.

Ideal weather favoured the meeting, but the crowd was not by any means a large one, due no doubt to the many counter-attractions.

The highest dividend of the day was returned by King's Bounty (Mr. H. M. Pih) in the Kwangsi Handicap over a mile, punters being paid $810.30. In the last race of the day Mr. Gilbert Harriman came first on Royal Highness to pay $42.20, while the same jockey gave his backers a return of $52.60 in the Subscription Griffins Autumn Plate when he came third on the Hero. Those successful in picking the winners in the "Daily Double," Night View and Ranger, received the small return of $32.90.

Riding honours for the day were shared by Mr. Donald Black and Mr. N. Deltz, both of whom had two wins—the latter as the result of Bear Claw's disqualification—and in the only race that he took part, Mr. Leo Frost, the former champion jockey, scored a third. Mr. W. H. Choy secured his tenth win on Mr. Lan's Night View and has thus graduated from the Novice Class. So far as the owners were concerned, honours were very evenly divided.

Oak Bay, with Mr. Frost up, secured a flying start to lead by several lengths in the Double Tenth Plate with Gladiator, Honey-moon Eve, Diana Bay and Soldier of Britain, the favourite, bunched together, but on coming into the home stretch Diana Bay and Soldier of Britain began to close in on the leader, while Mr. R. M. Wood also kept his mount in close attendance. Soldier of Britain ran very well over the last furlong and looked as though it was going to overtake the leader when Mr. Black, showing rare judgment, shot in front to win by a short head from Soldier of Britain and pay his backers $35.50. Oak Bay was third, the same distance behind, while Honey-moon Eve, the Derby winner, was fourth.

King's Bounty Surprises

King's Bounty led all the way to win the Kwangsi Handicap, but Mr. H. M. Pih had to fight hard to stave off the very spirited challenge offered by Mr. Paul Botelho, on Ribble, who was only a short head behind.

King's Bounty shot into the lead as soon as the gate went up and was followed by Boolat Bay, Ribble, Bistre, Jungle Jim and King's Jubilee, the rest of the field being bunched together about a length behind. Passing the Foot-ball Stands, King's Bounty began to draw away, but it was not given much scope by Bistre and Ribble and coming down the steep, after the Rock, Ribble and Boolat Bay were running neck and neck.

On entering the home stretch Pontiac Bay, which had been lurking in the rear, suddenly shot up, but the distance proved too much for it and it had to be content with fourth place. The race between King's Bounty and Ribble was a very exciting one, the former just failing to place. When the gate went up King's Fancy jumped out into the lead with Sadko, Bear Claw, King's Justice, Mistake Bay, Cyclamen Bay and Rose Queen following in the order named. When the Rock was reached, however, Bear Claw had moved up to first place and appeared to have the race well in hand. Rose Queen and Cyclamen Bay, however, finished strongly and Bear Claw, just won by a short head.

Protest Upheld
At the conclusion of the race a protest was lodged and the following was the Steward's decision: "The First Pony 'Bear Claw' is disqualified for bumping and boring." The Official result of the Race is as follows:—
1st Rose Queen.
2nd Cyclamen Bay.
3rd King's Justice.
Mr. Black's Second Win
Mr. Donald Black won a good race on Ranger in the Katoomba Handicap to pay $32.90 on the Daily Double and his backers $11.90. Ranger was favourite, and Perfect Day, the second favourite, only managed to fill fourth place.

Rose Evelyn Beaten

The Subscription Griffins Autumn Plate proved a triumph for Mr. S. Y. Liang, who rode a well-judged race to bring Wild Cat in first by a length and a half ahead

There was one dead-heat for second place.

Mr. Black took the lead right from the start and was followed by Snowy River and Centre Court, while Mr. Pih, on Perfect Day, was content to keep his pony back at the start. When the Village Bend was reached The Ranger went further ahead and next in order were Centre Court and Snowy River. Perfect Day finished strongly, but found but ground it had lost at the start of the race too much for him.

Royal Highness Causes Upset

High Honour, with Mr. H. M. Pih up, was made favourite for the Kwangsi Handicap, the last race of the day, but though it put up an excellent fight, it was ousted from first place by Royal Highness, ridden by Mr. Gilbert Harriman, who paid his backers the handsome dividend of $42.20.

Tyne, with Mr. Ip Kui Ying in the saddle, gave the rest of the field something to think about when it led for the first half mile by about four lengths, but when the field neared Black Rock it became apparent that the pace was too much for this pony and it gradually fell back. Meanwhile, Amberley, High Honour and Valorous were within striking distance. Coming into the straight, however, High Honour was seen to go to the front on the outside, but Mr. Harriman took an opening on the rails and came through in fine style to run neck and neck with High Honour until about 50 yards from the post, when he managed to establish a very slight lead which he maintained till the end. Valorous was only a short head behind High Honour, while fourth.

Bear Claw Wins

Bear Claw, the favourite, won the Kwangsi Handicap over six furlongs, from a field of seven, the second favourite, King's Fancy, just failing to place. When the gate went up King's Fancy jumped out into the lead with Sadko, Bear Claw, King's Justice, Mistake Bay, Cyclamen Bay and Rose Queen following in the order named. When the Rock was reached, however, Bear Claw had moved up to first place and appeared to have the race well in hand. HONG KONG TENNIS ACES WIN 9 TO 3

Very Sound But Not Brilliant Displays
By Northerners

S. A. RUMJAHN AND TSUI
GUILTY OF POACHING

The mixed party of tennis players from the Shanghai Country Club, the Cercle Sportif Français (Shanghai French Club), the Shanghai Cricket Club and the Russian Club opened their campaign of friendly matches in the Colony yesterday with a series of mixed doubles matches against Hong Kong (Island) combinations at the Chinese Recreation Club, and after an interesting afternoon's play were defeated by 9 sets to 3, the series being decided on the number of sets played, and not by matches won and lost.

The visiting men gave a sound exhibition, but were by no means better than the average Colony "A" Division League players, with the exception perhaps of Du Pac de Marsoulles, who gave a delightful, though impetuous display, partnered by Miss J. Massey.

Meise was also good. He had a wide variety of strokes, including a perfect drop shot which often scored. His volleying and overhead work were also good, but he lacked sting in his fore and back-hand driving. He was partnered by Mrs. Krenov, runner-up in the recent Shanghai Ladies' Singles Championship, who did not come up to expectations.

Figgis Impresses

Figgis made a good impression, possessing a deadly first service, when it came off. He played a cool game at all times and showed a very good drive on both hands, while he was also sound in his volleying. His partner Mrs. Dvorjetz, the smallest of the Shanghai ladies, although their most powerful hitter, played a rousing game and put every ounce she had into her shots, although she was weak on her backhand. She was very fast and often retrieved what looked like impossible shots.

Forbes was a great trier, although his positioning was not of the best and he often left one side of the court open, which the opposition were not slow to notice. Mrs. Burton was the weakest of the Shanghai ladies.

Rousing Exhibition

Du Pac de Marsoulles and Miss Massey, probably the youngest of the visiting pairs, gave a rousing exhibition and should have won two of their three sets. Miss Massey played aggressively at the net but her strongest point was her lobbing, which was very effective at times.

Her partner was very agile and some of his unexpected returns, including a slashing back-hand return following a sudden deep-lob by the opposition, evoked rounds of applause. His stroke play was easily the most impressive of the visitors and he should go far in future Shanghai tennis championships. He was, however, much too impetuous yesterday and threw away several valuable points.

Rumjahn Spoils Match

The local players, especially the men, with the exception of H. D. Rumjahn and In Tak-chouk, were most disappointing. S. A. Rumjahn, partnering his cousin Miss R. Rumjahn, robbed his match with Forbes and Mrs. Burton of any spectacle by continually poaching and consequently Miss Rumjahn was only given a few stray shots to return. Rumjahn cracked up badly in the last set, when the Shanghai pair took an early lead and retained it till the end.

In Tak-chouk and Mrs. Litton were not impressive, certainly not to the extent of defeating Du Pac de Marsoulles and Miss Massey by two sets to one. In, who did most of the work, was good overhead, while Mrs. Litton's best strokes were from the baseline.

Too Much Poaching

Tsui Wei-pui, supported by an excellent partner in Miss R. Perry, ruined his match against Meise and Mrs. Krenov by continually poaching. In the second and third sets it was almost a one-man show and Miss Perry must have felt as much fed up with the game as several of the spectators. Tsui's poaching, however, was performed with a measure of success and it was this which turned the tide in his favour in the second and third sets after they had lost the first in the tenth game.

Jean Tennyson, above, beautiful American opera singer, proved the sensation of the Budapest opera season this summer. The Hungarian capital is considered the most exciting in Europe, and both Galli-Curci and Grace Moore failed to win applause there. Miss Tennyson sang with the Chicago Opera last winter.

H. D. Rumjahn and Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu, for two years runners-up in the Colony Mixed Doubles Championship, were not seen at their best, and it was only "H.D.'s" fine volleying which turned the scales in their favour.

There was a fairly large gathering of spectators, tea being served on the lawn.

Scores were:—
S. A. Rumjahn and Miss R. Rumjahn (Hong Kong) beat J. G. Forbes and Mrs. T. M. Burton (Visitors) 6-0, 6-1, 4-6.

In Tak-chouk and Mrs. Litton (Hong Kong) beat J. du Pac de Marsoulles and Miss J. Massey (Visitors) 4-6, 9-7, 6-2.

Tsui Wei-pui and Miss R. Perry (Hong Kong) beat A. G. Meise and Mrs. B. Krenov (Visitors) 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

H. D. Rumjahn and Mrs. Chiu Chun-chiu (Hong Kong) beat T. G. Figgis and Mrs. Dvorjetz (Visitors) 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

To-day's Programme

To-day the Shanghai visitors will visit the Mainland, where they will meet the Kowloon Ladies and Men in two doubles encounters each. The Shanghai pairings will be Mrs. B. Krenov and Mrs. Burton, who will probably meet Mrs. N. Wilson and Mrs. W. E. B. Dowling, the Kowloon first string, while Mrs. Dvorjetz and Miss J. Massey will meet Miss M. Griffiths and Miss A. Mackenzie, the Kowloon second string.

In the Men's Doubles encounters, A. G. Meise and J. du Pac de Marsoulles, of Shanghai, will meet E. C. Fincher and W. C. Hung, the Kowloon first string, while J. G. Forbes and T. G. Figgis will meet Ma Chiu-chong and Ho Wah-ling, South China's leading doubles pair.

To-day's matches, which commence at 3 p.m. at the Kowloon Cricket will be open to the public, there being no charge for admission.

CHINA COTTON AND YARN

Great Demand For "Spot"

SHORTAGE REPORTED

The China Cotton and Yarn Company reports that during the past week there was a very great demand for "Spot" yarn, which has resulted in the shortage of the commodity. It is estimated that there are only about 30,000 bales of "Spot" yarn on hand in Shanghai at present. Of this number the mills possess 20,000 bales, while the banks control the remaining 10,000 bales.

Yesterday being a holiday no business was contracted between Hong Kong and Shanghai.

To-morrow the China and Cotton Yarn Company open their branch office in Canton.

The following were the opening and closing prices of China yarn and cotton as received by the Company last Friday.

LOCAL SHARE MARKET

Northern Situation
Causes Anxiety

"QUIET AT THE CLOSE"

In an interview with the Sunday Herald yesterday, Mr. C. A. L. Rickett, secretary of the Hong Kong Sharebrokers' Association, said:—

A quiet market has been experienced during the week and prices were inclined to ease off on account of the prevailing inactivity. The situation in the North, in spite of reassuring reports, continues to cause some degree of nervousness, and tends to curb any initiative amongst investors, while speculators are inclined towards profit taking.

"During the week there were enquiries for Banks, and business was put through at prices ranging from $1.015 to $1.025, with buyers at the former figure at the close. China Lights (old) fluctuated between $14 and $14.7. Providents (old) reached $2, but improved later with buyers at $2.05.

"In the Philippine Gold Mining section of the market similar conditions prevailed, and changes in price levels were experienced only

LOCAL DANCING CHAMPIONSHIP

Heats Concluded At H.K. Hotel

FINALS TO-DAY

The heats for the Colony Amateur Dancing Championship were concluded last evening at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden, when Mr. A. Wong and Miss J. Ma and Mr. F. Willey and Miss D. Hunt qualified for the finals which are to be held this evening in the Hong Kong Hotel Grill Room from 8 p.m. to 8 p.m.

As the judges, Miss Pat Sykes and her partner Mr. J. A. Andrew, made a concession to the popular vote, Mr. A. L. Chen and Miss C. Tung were given a chance and allowed to pass through as runners-up.

Besides the three mentioned above, the following couples will also be seen in the finals this afternoon:—

Mr. Leung Lin-chuen and Miss Rita Randall.

Mr. M. Drysdale and Mrs. D. Reville.

Mr. Thomas Lee and Miss Crispina Perpetuo.

Mr. S. A. Gray and Miss Allison MacKenzie.

Mr. F. S. Nichols and Mrs. Sterling.

Mr. V. M. Benwell and Miss K. Winch.

Mr. O. R. Sallick and Miss G. Wong.

About 1,000 people attended the tea dances at the Hong Kong Hotel during the past week, when the heats for the Colony Amateur Dancing Championship were held.

Miss Pat Sykes and Mr. J. A. Andrew will be the sole judges during this afternoon's finals.

U.S. SAILORS IN TROUBLE

Alleged Scene At Cafe

ASSAULT CHARGE

Rudolph A. Fimmell, a marine, and Kenneth L. Tyron, a fireman, both of the U.S.S. "Goldstar," were yesterday morning charged before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy with assaulting Ho Sui-lam, accountant of the Tung Yuen Cafe, No. 55 Des Voeux Road Central, on Friday at about 8.30 p.m.

Both defendants pleaded not guilty and were remanded till to-morrow.

Sub-Inspector Armit said that about 8.30 on Friday night he received a telephonic communication that some Europeans were creating a disturbance near this cafe. They were under the influence of drink. The trouble arose when the defendants went into the cafe and asked for two cups of coffee but were not served. They resented this and a row started, during which the complainant was hit and a flower-pot and earthenware were broken.

Given evidence, the complainant agreed with the inspector that the defendants had come to his cafe and ordered coffee and were not served, as he had instructions from the management that Europeans were not to be served. He was struck by both of them, while the damage to the shop done was about $5. He was definite that the defendants were sober at his cafe and, even under cross-examination by the Inspector, maintained that when in the charge-room they were still sober.

FUSILIERS' HOCKEY "DOUBLE"

The Royal Welch Fusiliers brought off a very creditable hockey "double" last Friday, when their first eleven beat the Radio Sports Club at Caroline Hill by an only goal, scored after a corner by Connor late in the second half, and when the second eleven beat the Police Training School "B" team by the same margin at Prince Edward Road, Keneghan being the scorer.

There were enquiries for Paraos Gumaus, Demonstrations and Atoks. The improved price of San Mauricio was well maintained in spite of a certain amount of profit-taking at the higher price levels.

Trading in all sections of the market has been on a more restricted scale during the week and the undertone is quiet at the close.

From Here And There

Mr. William C. Low, the Pusan Judge's clerk at the Supreme Court, who is keenly interested in the Boy Scout movement, is away on two weeks' vacation. It is understood that he is spending his leave in Canton and up-country.

Another member of the Supreme Court staff who had been on casual holiday is Mr. C. B. Wong of the General Office. Mr. Wong is a very prominent member of the South China Athletic Association and takes a leading part in their sporting as well as social engagements.

Mr. L. D. Skinner, a member of the staff at the Hong Kong Telephone Company Ltd., will be returning to the Colony from home leave in a few days' time. Mr. Skinner, who is keenly interested in badminton, having been the Hon. Secretary of the local Association for some time, has been away for about six months.

AMUSEMENT PARK

New Venture Well
Patronised

CROWDED STALLS AND SIDE-SHOWS

The Hong Kong Amusement Park, situated in Hennessy Road opposite the Leo Gardens, threw open its doors to the public at 6 p.m. yesterday, and within an hour the place was filled to capacity with people, all of whom entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of fun and enjoyment.

Every taste was catered for in the Park. Near the entrance there were the miniature billiards and hoop stalls, and those were the most popular, judging by the huge crowds assembled round the stalls. Prizes consisted of clocks, watches, perfumes, hair brushes, cigarette cases and cigarettes.

Next to these stalls were the dart boards, and these were also popular, while in the centre of the Park were laid out the skating-rinks, the dance floor and the horse-riding arena. The last two were not used, but the skating-rink was well patronised, lookers-on being greatly amused by the efforts of some of the not too skilful skaters, when they hit the ground.

The Zoo, consisting of kangaroos, sloths, pythons, monkeys, etc., was a favourite with the youngsters, while in the same tent an illusion was afforded when in a large glass bowl on a table the head of a woman floated. There was no cloth on the table and it was in full view of the audience.

In another section of the Park were Grubel's big illusions and conjuring, while a Tombola or Lotto was held at another of the stalls.

The Amusement Park bids fair to fill the want of a change from the ordinary amusements available, and through the diversity of its forms of entertainment should increase in popularity. Last night it was well attended and not only by the inhabitants of the area in which it is situated, but also by quite a number of Service men.

"Tommy" Cowan, the Australian white ant extermination expert, is leaving shortly for Shanghai, where he will establish a branch office. He will probably be accompanied by Mr. Stanley Chung Lun, the eldest son of Mr. Chung Lun, formerly of Sydney, Australia.

Mr. W. J. Christain, who is connected with the American steel industry, is now on a visit to the Colony, we understand, to start a branch office here. He is staying at the Hong Kong Hotel.

The many friends of Mr. S. A. R. Ismail will be glad to learn that he has returned to office after having been away on sick leave for about two weeks. He is with the well-known firm of solicitors, Messrs. Geo. K. Hall Brutton and Company.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Yung, of Shanghai, are at present on a visit to the Colony and are staying at the Gloucester Hotel. Mr. Yung is in the insurance business, being connected with the International Assurance Company.

Mr. D. M. Khan, of the Government Medical Department, left for India by the s.s. Santhia yesterday for eight months' leave. He intends visiting the different parts of the country for some time before joining his parents in Peshawar.

Mr. Cecil Chan, who hails from Sydney, Australia, arrived in the Colony by the s.s. Changte last Friday. He will be staying with his parents, who have been here for some time now. It is understood that Mr. Chan will be taking up a business appointment.

FEES RELINQUISHED FOR BIRTHDAY FUND

Local cabarets were gallily decorated with flags and streamers and illuminated with electric lights of various colours in commemoration of China's National Day last night. The China Em-porium Ballroom had a model aeroplane suspended from the hall, and balloons, streamers, confetti and souvenirs of every variety were freely distributed among the customers.

Instead of making some extra money last night the "Emporium girls" sacrificed all of last night's earnings as their contribution towards the "Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek Fund," which has been organised by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce to purchase aeroplanes to be presented to China's Dictator on his coming birthday. The management of the Ballroom also contributed the whole of last night's takings as their share towards the fund, and also presented a silver cup to the girl whose popularity brought in the majority of the tickets sold.

Last night. The Lido Cabaret organised a "ombola" and presented dance tickets to the respective winners. The first prize was $20, the second $10 and the third $5.

ACCOUNTANCY ORIGINATED HERE IN CHINA

"Confucius Was An Accountant"

RESULTS OF RESEARCH WORK OF THOMAS LE C. KUEN

That China has every right to claim to be the country where accounting first originated was one of the sensational statements made by Mr. Thomas Le C. Kuen, A.A.A., A.I.C.S., President of the Association of Chinese Accountants and Auditors of Hong Kong, in an interview with the Sunday Herald yesterday. Mr. Le C. Kuen said that as a result of several months' research work into the history of Chinese accounting, he was finally convinced that accounting originated in China, for in books written by Mencius, an intimate disciple of Confucius, it definitely states that "Confucius was an accountant to the Government before he became a Minister of the country."

The theory that the art of accounting was in existence in China almost 3,000 years ago will not only attract the attention of local accountants, but is certain to cause a sensation among professional accountants in other countries.

According to Mr. Le Kuen, in former days Chinese business men were rather dogmatic and gave very little attention to the business of improving their accounting system scientifically. They learned the method of keeping their accounts from verbal instructions or precedents, but were unable to ascertain their financial figures as accurately as can be done under the present double-entry system.

New System Coming
It is officially learned that the Association of Chinese Accountants and Auditors of Hong Kong is advocating a new system of Chinese accounting. This new method will be clearly outlined and explained in every detail in a book entitled "A Treatise on Modern Chinese Accounting," written by Mr. Le Kuen, which will be available to the Chinese business community as soon as it comes off the press.

The importance of reforming the Chinese system of accountancy is well recognised by the Chinese Government authorities as a definite guard against falsification and manipulation of accounts. The Association is making arrangements with the various leading commercial bodies for the operation of this new Chinese accounting system, and special departments will be established for public consulting services to Chinese firms and individuals who wish to have their accounts reformed. Lectures will also be delivered at different commercial institutions, and special classes are to be conducted during the evening hours.

Mr. Cecil Chan, who hails from Sydney, Australia, arrived in the Colony by the s.s. Changte last Friday. He will be staying with his parents, who have been here for some time now. It is understood that Mr. Chan will be taking up a business appointment.

Mountains In Ancient China

Festival Of "Mounting The Heights"

Charming Stories In Old Tales And Legends

(By PHYLLIS JUBY)

THE Chung Yeung Festival, this year on October 23, or the 9th day of the 9th moon, comes to us with pictures light and airy, of a stream of people ascending, of flying kites, waving banners, of mountain tops fresh in the autumn coolness. Chung means double, Yeung the male principle, which is connected with the number nine, hence the name "Double Nine." There is a popular legend no older than the Han dynasty regarding this festival. It tells of a collector of herbs who warned a respected scholar to hasten with his family and climb to the shelter of the mountains till there was nothing between them and the sky, for a dreadful calamity was impending. The scholar followed his advice, taking with him food and a bowl of chrysanthemum wine. (The chrysanthemum wine is believed to prolong life, gaining its magical properties because of the resemblance of the flower to the sun disc.) Returning at the end of the day, the scholar saw what he had escaped: all his cattle and poultry had died a violent death. This is the popular origin of "Mounting the heights," but one feels that it has a meaning deeper than the clairvoyance of a country herbalist and the modest acceptance of a virtuous scholar.

Five Sacred Mountains

Mountains in China are the seats of spiritual intelligence; far away the five sacred ones stand on the western border, august, only accessible to the sages. The Chinese associated them with their conception of the universe; they were the seat of the Holy Place, an attitude toward life was conceived on their furry slopes. Taoist monks sought their silent retreat, and, at last, poets and painters found their crystal-clear expression in the pure and frigid air of the hills.

The Chinese conceived the universe as a chariot of which the tent was supported by four pillars, the four cardinal mountains. "Four Mountains" was the name the Emperor gave his vassals in charge of the maintenance of peace in the four directions. The hills were the bones of the earth, its stable foundation, as the chief was the firm element of government. There was no difference between the fight led by an usurper against his sovereign, and the invasion of a mountain by an evil genie taking the shape of a whirling, disturbing wind.

One of the world's pillars is a famous mount, the Pou Shan, lying in the North-West; a gate at the foot leads to a dark palace full of night. When Kong Kong, the wind genie, fought his lord, the Pou Shan shook, rivers burst their banks and overflowed, the world being in order only when it is well closed as a house. Kong Kong split the mountain with his horn, Heaven vacillated and swung to the North-West; the Sun, the Moon and the Stars travelled to the West; while the Earth, opening in an opposite direction, opened a gap to the East into which rivers and seas hastened their course.

Mysterious Country

It is remarkable that the sacred mountains all lie in the West; the North-West is a mysterious country dominated by the K'wen Lun, a mountain and at the same time a nine-storeyed mansion. Hanging gardens with trees bearing pearls and jade cover its slopes. He who climbs K'wen Lun reaches immortality. It is the home of the supreme King; the only divinity he welcomes is the Queen Mother of the West, an aggress with a leopard's tail, a tiger's paw, with hair dishevelled, howling, breathing poisons and diseases; but from her is obtained the elixir of immortality. She feasts alone on the top of a jade tower.

One and all mountains, woods, and rivers were divine forces to be worshipped. "Mountains, forests, rivers, valleys, heights, hills, have the power to produce clouds, to make rain and wind, and to cause portents to appear: of all these things it is said that they are the sacred powers of mountains and rivers who are entreated by means of sacrifices when floods, droughts or epidemics befall." The ancient festivals were always held amid a scene of mountains and rivers, where trees and grass were abundant. It was the mountains and rivers, Holy Places, that controlled the regularity of the seasons, and the regularity of the life of the community accorded with the rhythm of the seasons.

Worship A Privilege

In the natural order these Holy Places occupied a position analogous to that of the ruler in human society. Their worship was in fact the privilege of sovereignty. "The Son of Heaven makes offerings to Heaven and earth, to the spirits of the four cardinal points, to the geni of the mountains and rivers. He offers a fat ox of single colour." In the second month of the year he travelled to the Oriental part of the kingdom and arriving at the venerable Tai Shan, he burnt a heap of wood and offered a victim as sacrifice. If the sacrifice was not offered, the prince who had neglected his duty was deprived of a part of his principality. For, "the Holy Mountains are mighty and extensive; their summits reach to heaven! It is from the holy mountains that the sacred powers came down which gave birth to (the princes of) Fu and Shen." And of the princes of Fu and Shen, Confucius said: "These two princes are the pillars of the house of Chou, the defenders of the principalities, the benefactors of the whole Empire." The potency of the mountains and rivers is identical to the power of the princely house. "Now the Tai Shan is crumbling," Confucius sang when nearing his end, foreseeing the fall of Chou.

Peopled By Spirits

In popular belief the mountain is peopled by spirits big and small. "If a man should enter the mountains unarmed with expedients, he is certain to suffer injury or death. He will, for example, be rendered ill, or he will be wounded or stabbed, or he will be disfigured, or he will see lights and shadows, or smell strange odours. Sometimes these beings will cause big trees to snap in the absence of any wind, or rocks to tumble down with no palpable reason, men being thus hit or killed. Others bewilder men, and cause them to run about, deprived of reason, and to tumble down into abysses. Others again send tigers upon them, or wolves, or venomous snakes. Therefore nobody should enter a mountain without valid reasons. You should make such excursions in the third month of the year or in the ninth, as it is in these months that the mountains are accessible. Moreover, it is necessary to select from these months an auspicious day and a favourable hour. But whoever enters a mountain should fast beforehand and purify himself and abstain from passing over or by any sordid or dirty substances for seven days."

"The spirits that dwell in the hills have the shape of a baby, with a single leg. When they run they turn their face backward. Some are like drums, of a carnation colour and with one leg, others have human forms, are nine feet long, and wear fur coats and hats of bamboo, others resemble five-coloured dragons with red horns. No such being has the courage to do any outrage when its name is shouted at it."

Tiger Lore

The Hu wei, tiger-lore of the Sixteenth Century, relates: "The hill-siao occur everywhere. South of the Sierra (i.e. in Kwangtung). They have one leg with reversed heel, so that they possess three limbs. Their females are fond of painting themselves with red cosmetics and rice-flour. They make their nests in big hollow trees, in which they have wooden wind-screens and curtains. They have a great store and variety of food. When a southerner is on travel in the mountains, he mostly carries with him some yellow cosmetics, as also lead paint, rice-powder, some coins, etc. When he falls in with a male he calls him Mountain-chief, and a female he styles Mountain-lady; she is sure to ask for some cosmetics and rice powder, and if he gives these things he may ensure her protection."

It would seem from this that perhaps the Chinese placed in their great class of hill spirits a dying race of aborigines who occasionally made raids upon their more refined neighbours. Some of these hill tribes were cannibals. "They have a human body and walk on their toes. They laugh spontaneously. When they laugh, they raise their lips over their eyes. They are cannibals."

The Taoists wished to free the Chinese of these animistic conceptions. Their monks went alone to the mountains to seek quietude. For the monk, the exponent of the new doctrine, life in society was doctrine and constraint; civilization had corrupted nature, beings and things; the artificial, the acquired knowledge was a death-gery; the illusion of progress an uncomfortable growth. "What is curved must remain curved, the crane's legs cannot be shortened, neither the duck's paw lengthened." One loses one's individuality by being a slave of habits and customs, one "kills one's self" by being fond of others.

No School Of Despair

It would be a mistake to think, though, that Taoism was a school of despair. The mountains taught the disciples to be human and detached; solitude and the simple life were not to mortify, to macerate the body, but to vivify it; the idea of game, of free development dominated the whole of the ascetic doctrine. "To keep one's vitality," says Lao Tze, "it is necessary to be like the newly-born babe: his bones are soft, his muscles tender,

MOTURING NOTES

HIGH-PRESSURE GENERATOR

Installed At Ford Plant

MANY RECORDS BROKEN

Spinning a Ford V-8 steering wheel, Henry Ford recently started the steam flowing through a new turbine generator that makes the giant power house of the Rouge Plant, the largest high-pressure steam generating installation in the world. The new equipment which includes a 1,400-pound pressure boiler increases generating capacity from 200,000 to 320,000 horsepower. The installation is the first in the world to use all-welded pipe. The new generating equipment represents an investment of about $4,000,000.

Setting another record in another respect, the new installation provides for the operation of the new boiler at the highest temperature ever achieved in a large industrial plant in America. The boiler will provide steam at 900 degrees Fahrenheit, supplying 900,000 pounds an hour at that temperature. This achievement greatly increases efficiency, according to engineers. The new boiler is 25ft. 8in. by 32ft. and towers 115ft. the full height of the power house.

To bring the steam to the 900 degrees temperature, the boiler is fired with pulverised coal at the rate of about 40 tons an hour, together with large amounts of blast furnace gas. Designed to produce steam at 1,400 pounds pressure, the boiler will have a normal operating pressure of about 1,215 pounds at the turbine throttle. As the steam is condensed as soon as it is released from the turbine, the boiler turbo system operates on about 35,000 gallons of water.

but he clings with force; all the day long he cries, and his throat is not hoarse; he looks and his eyes do not blink." In the Taoist Paradise geni live among beasts, "beings with blood and breath cannot differ from humans in feelings and intelligence." The Saint learns from children, animals and plants the delightful way to live in view of life.

Then the mountains, after having been inhabited by the swarm of little wild geni, saw strange beings "mounting the wind," carried east and west as a leaf, "not knowing whether it was the wind that dragged them, or themselves dragging the wind."

State Of Innocence

In this happy time men remained in a state of "innocence; they lived without contact with human beings and had no artificial desires; they remained intact in their autonomy, "satisfied, peaceful, they died of old age without having known those whose dogs barked and cocks crowed, simple and rustic they gave their gifts but asked nothing in return."

Poets and painters were other charming hosts of the mountains: in quiet receptivity they felt the working of rhythmic life. "I have lost my heart to the mountain of Lu and Heng," says Tsung Ping, the hermit of the Six Dynasties, "and am so constantly thinking of Chiu and Wu, which I have not seen for such a long time, that I forget old age is approaching me. Regretting that I am unable to enjoy myself by lingering around the waterfall of Stone Gate, I paint their form and colour from imagination, and create their cloudy mountain tops."

Li Po, the Tang poet, sang: The birds have all flown to their roost in the tree, The last cloud has just floated lazily by; But we never tire of each other, not we, As we sit together—the mountain, and me.

Guard Your Dog's HEALTH

Too much meat means too much heat for your dog's blood. And especially in a hot climate this causes him "torment" through continual scratching, lack of appetite, moodiness, irritability and loss of energy. You can remedy the trouble by cutting down his meat supply and substituting LACTOL. A daily drink means daily health for your dog—the health that brings him appetite, perfect coat, peevish spirits and abundant energy. For opening puppers and for the feeding and strengthening of sick or aged dogs or nursing bitches LACTOL is supreme.

BIDDING TACTICS

By ELY CULBERTSON

WHEN you hold a strong hand and a vulnerable opponent on your right opens the bidding, it is by no means necessary to take immediate action provided your hand contains some definite strength in the opponents' suit. The reasons for this should be fairly evident on the surface. The strategic pass in this position lulls the opponents into a feeling of false security, and as a result they may optimistically reach a point where you can double for a sizeable penalty. If the opponents wisely refrain from getting too high, you can now abandon your policy of passive waiting and aggressively enter the bidding in an effort to make a part-score, game or slam contract of your own.

On to-day's hand the North player passed on the first round, but subsequently bid his hand very strongly, albeit very soundly, thus enabling his partner to contract for a small slam.

West, dealer.

Pass	5 H (5)	Pass	6 H (6)
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—North quite properly decides to pass, hoping to trap the opponents into reaching an overly optimistic contract. There is nothing that the North player would like better than to see East and West play the hand in diamonds.

2—Despite the lack of honour strength in the South hand the latter must reopen the bidding because of his very fine distribution. East obviously has nothing, and North may be lying back—which actually happens to be the case.

3—This is an underbid by North. However, no particularly good fit has been found in the hand as yet, and North does not know of his partner's very fine distribution.

4—North quite properly decides he must now take very strong action. A magnificent fit has been found in the heart suit, and in addition North can tell from his own holding that his partner must be very short, if not void, in diamonds.

5—North still has not shown the full strength of his hand. If his partner could reopen the bidding when vulnerable and then show a two-suiter, a contract of five-odd must be safe and there should be a play for six if South can bid it.

6—South shows confidence in his partner. He knows that North, in addition to very fine heart support, must hold some sort of spade fit. South himself is void of diamonds and knows that North must hold the club Ace, and since, if the latter suit is opened, the trick can be allowed to ride around to the Queen there will be a good chance for the contract.

The task of North and South was not over with the bidding. It took very fine play indeed by the South player to enable him to fulfil his contract. West opened the diamond King and South ruffed and now took the spade finesse, which, to his dismay, lost. East returned a club, South ducked and West's Jack forced the Ace. The Ace of spades was now played from Dummy, and the silver lining appeared from behind the clouds when West's Jack dropped.

South now stopped and took stock. For the West player to make two vulnerable bids when his partner could not even keep a one-bid open, the West hand must contain at least five cards in both minor suits. Since the West player was marked with only two spades on the drop of the Jack, he probably held a singleton heart.

Acting on the basis of this almost certain count, South immediately led a trump and won with the Jack in his own hand. He now boldly laid down the spade Ten to discard a club in Dummy, feeling confident that West was now void of trumps.

When this play succeeded South led the Queen of clubs. He actually had the hand made now whether West covered or not. Had West not covered, South have merely discarded a diamond from Dummy and then cross-ruffed the rest of the hand. West actually made it a little harder by covering. South carefully trumped with the heart Ace in Dummy and then returned to his hand by ruffing a diamond. A spade was led and trumped with the heart Queen, and now the heart eight was led from Dummy, and when East played low South finessed the nine-spot in his own hand. The King of hearts drew East's last trump and South won the last two tricks with his established spade and the club ten.

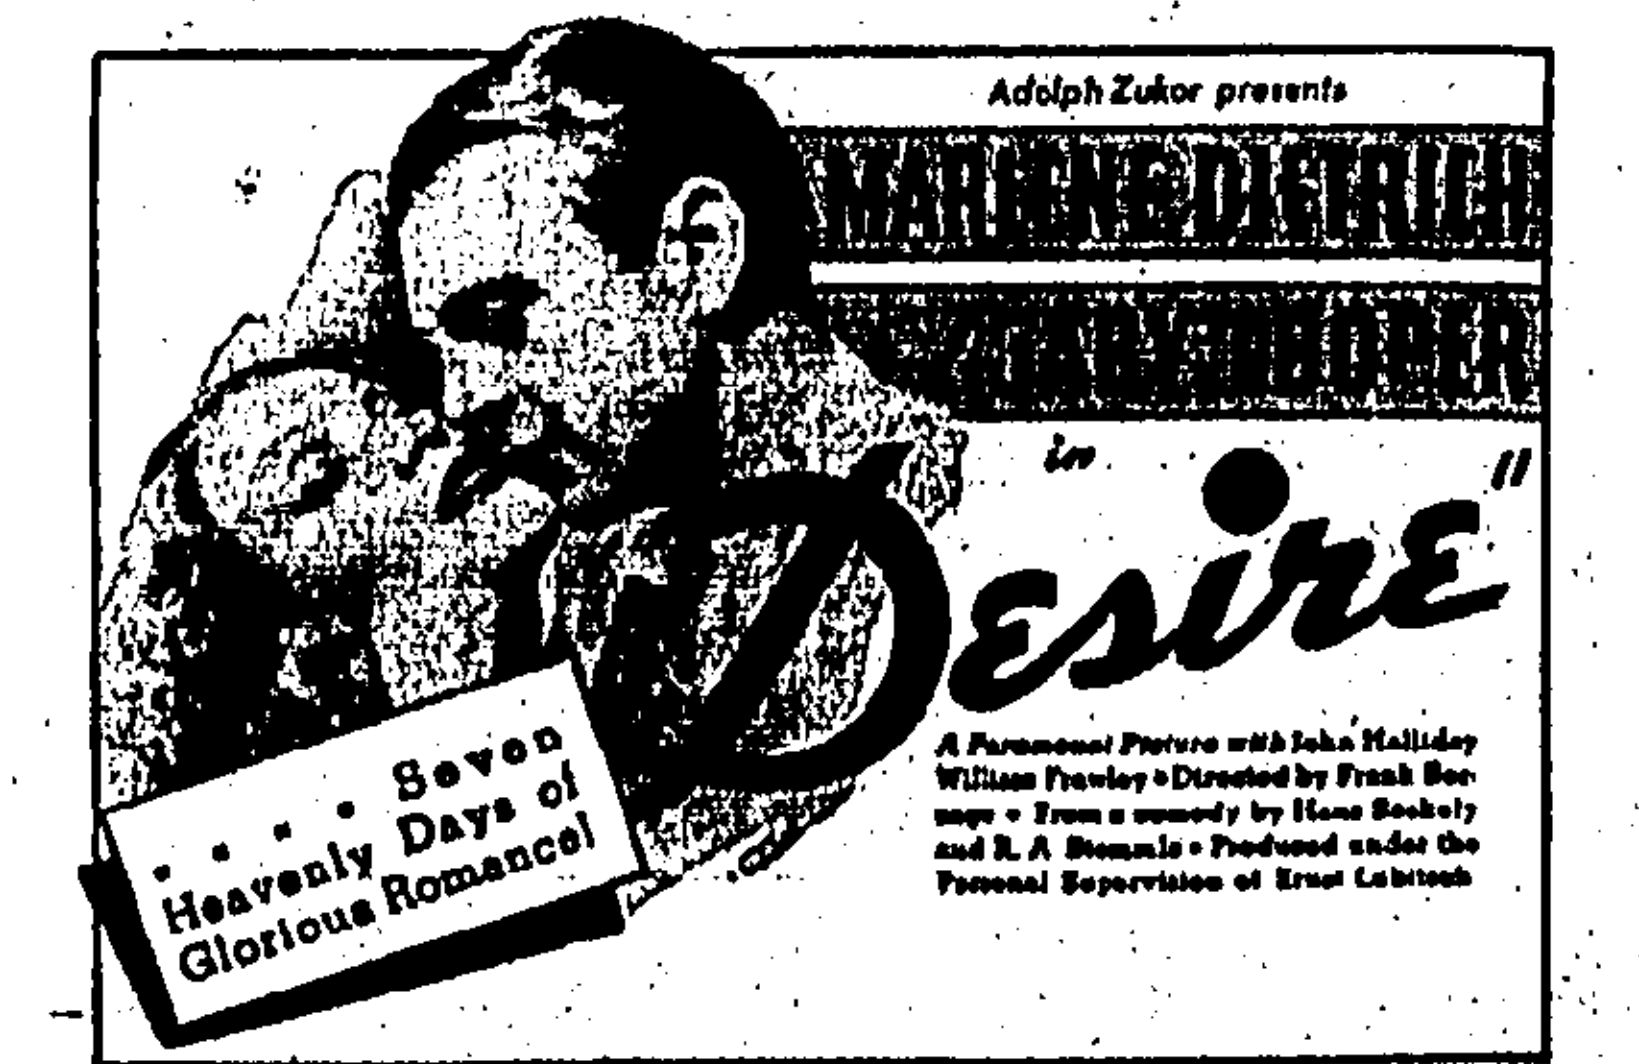

WOMEN HAD BETTER READ THIS

Still another critic of the modern girl has come forward. This time it is the Rev. Kenneth Ashcroft, bachelor vicar of St. Michael's, Poplar. Writing in his parish magazine, he criticises the girls of to-day for "performing the most intimate tasks of the toilet in the public eye," and prophesies that the time will come when men "will produce shaving soap and a razor and shave in the theatre."

As Jerry reached her side the girl jumped up, threw her arms around him and sobbed, convulsively. "Oh, I'm so frightened... and so hungry... and I just kept walking... and walking and walking..."

"You're all right, now," Jerry patted her shoulder reassuringly. "We'll have you back to camp in no time. The machine is at the foot of the trail."

"But I'm so weak," the girl gasped, "I don't think I can make it."

"Sure you can make it. Take her arm, Perkins."

Half leaning on, half clinging against, Devon, the girl stumbled up the rocky trail. Jerry pulled from in front, Perkins boosted from behind.

"I can't walk," she murmured faintly. "You'll have to carry me."

"O. K." Devon was cheerful but curt. "If you can't, you can't."

He picked her up in a strong right arm, threw her over his shoulder, exactly as he would have tossed a bag of meal, her head hanging down, her knees firmly grasped. Then strode down the narrow trail.

"That's not the way to carry a girl!" Lorraine's words came in jerks and jolts as the ranger strode down the path. "You should carry me on—your—arms!"

"This is the way I carry 'em. And I've carried plenty," Jerry grinned at Perkins and Perkins grinned back.

The ride back to camp was brief and wordless. Lorraine sulked on the back seat. Jerry whistled on the front.

Bathed and dressing-gowned, Lorraine was sipping the orange juice Dorothy had brought her when a knock sounded at the door. Dot opened it and Jerry Devon towered tall above the rescued girl.

"How are you by now? Feeling better?"

"I'm all right," briefly.

"Good, I've just made my report to headquarters but before I went home to grab a bit of sleep I wanted to look in and offer you two words of advice."

"What advice?" she looked up, curiously.

"First, next time you put on dark glasses and take a room at the Ahawahne Hotel as 'Miss Smith,' and stay in bed there for two days and nights, don't let even the maid get a look at your face!"

The girl flushed crimson to the roots of her hair. Dot snickered.

"Second, next time you get yourself lost in the Yosemite Valley and keep a gang of hard-working park rangers out looking for you, remember to scuff up your shoes, young lady. Scuff up your shoes!" Reaching down he lifted a small kid oxford from the floor and held it out on his palm. "For an amateur, your act was pretty good. But these nice clean shoes made me suspicious and I did a little questioning around the valley."

"I don't know what you're talking about," pouted Miss Foster, "and I think you're horrid."

"That's all. Now I'm off for sleep. See you to-night, Dot." He threw his arms around Dorothy's blue-clad shoulders and kissed her—soundly—on the lips.

"Why! He kissed you!" Lorraine gasped in amazement.

"Don't let that worry you," laughed Dorothy as the door closed behind the ranger's tall back.

"It's a secret but I'll let you in. I've been married to the ninety days wonder—or six months."

BOY WITH A PAST

Perhaps Starved Of "A Mother's Love"

A boy of 13 came before the Croydon Juvenile court last month—a boy with a past. Ever since he was five years old he has been under public care.

"His file runs to about 100 pages," said an official of the institution. "He looks like being a problem all his life."

A woman magistrate suggested that the real misfortune was that the boy had been starved of a mother's love.

The Bench decided that he should be given a trial at another school.

CHINA'S NATIONAL CELEBRATIONS HISTORY OF THE LAST 25 YEARS MOMENTOUS DECISIONS PENDING

(From A Special Correspondent)

Canton, Yesterday. Having had to struggle for existence for the last 24 years, the Republic of China has at last become a unified country and celebrates her 25th National Day to-day. Letters of congratulations have been received from the diplomatic bodies of 13 different foreign countries.

At 7 o'clock this morning, all officials of and above the Kanyam grade (officials of the second grade) in Nanking, the capital of China, met at Dr. Sun Yat-sen's tomb, where Mr. Lin Sen, the Chairman of the Nationalist Government of the Republic of China, officiated at the ceremony of celebrations. The Chairman, accompanied by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Executive Yuan, Mr. Yu Yan-yam, President of the Control Yuan, Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, Mr. Ku Chiang, President of the Judicial Yuan, Dr. Tai Chi-tao, President of the Examination Yuan, Ministers Ho Ying-ching, H. H. Kung, Chiang Chai-pen, Chang Chun, Chen Shao-fan, Chang Ka-ku, Wang Si-kit, Wu Ting-kang and Yu Pa-peng, and a number of high Kuomintang military and political officials, inspected the Boy Scouts after the ceremony. At 11 a.m. Mr. Lin Sen gave a reception to the diplomatic bodies.

EARLY HISTORY

It will be recalled that the Republic of China was formed in 1912 after the overthrow of the Ching Dynasty, and the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen was elected as the first Temporary President of the Chinese Republic. Later he resigned and left the position to his successor President Yuan Shih-kai. In 1913 the republic was recognised by the great Powers. In 1915, one year after the Great War started, President Yuan Shih-kai negotiated the "21 Demands" with the Japanese Government with the intention that he would receive help from the latter Government to support him to establish himself as the Emperor of China.

After President Yuan died from 1916 to 1920 the Republic was run by Presidents Lai Yung-hung, Feng Kwink-chung, Chui Si-chiang and Tso Kueh, was a disorderly country with separate independent zones, headed by military warlords; and the Peking Government had to face the foreign aggression periodically. In 1921 the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen was elected Extraordinary President in Canton, while in the North civil wars started one after the other between President Tso Kuen, General Feng Yu-tseng, the late General Chang Chai-jin and General Wu Pei-fu from 1921 to 1924.

PEOPLE'S CONGRESS

In 1925 Dr. Sun Yat-sen went to Peking in order to assemble the People's Congress with the Office Administering the Peking Government, General Tuen Ki-sui, but unfortunately he passed away there on March 21 of that year. In 1926, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek led the two Kwang troops on the northern expedition, and the Nanking Nationalist Government was formed in 1927. From 1927 to 1935 he was engaged in hostilities with Generals Feng Yu-tseng and Yen Sik-sen, to suppress the Fukien Revolt and the Kiangsi, Szechuen and Kweichow bandits. The remaining semi-independent Governments in 1935 were those of the two Kwangs only.

In the meantime the Japanese aggressions came successively. In 1928 he had to settle the Tsinan case on September 18, 1931, the Japanese Kwantung Army suddenly opened fire on the Chinese camp at Mukden and since that date China has lost four provinces. On January 28, 1932, the Shanghai War started, and then he had to settle the Tangku and Shanghai Peace Agreements with the Japanese Government. Besides, the East Hopei "Autonomous" regime was separated from the Hopei-Chahar Political Council in 1935. It will be recalled that China has lost 1,285,000 square li of territory, the allegiance of 29,000,000 people and large amounts of natural resources by non-resistance. The Generalissimo's chief accomplishment, however, was the unification of the two Kwangs this year.

"DIFFICULT PROBLEMS"

After the celebrations of to-day, the Generalissimo has to solve the difficult problems of the coming Sino-Japanese relations. It is reported that during the meeting of the Generalissimo and Mr. Kawagoe on Thursday last, he told the latter that China has to maintain her national rights and sovereignty, to preserve her territory, and to have a free hand in administering the Government. All regrettable incidents and the outstanding Sino-Japanese problems have to be settled through the proper channel of international law by the Chinese Foreign Office. Whether the Generalissimo will entertain any further demands from the Japanese Government or not is a matter of extreme importance to the whole world. It is reported that the Japanese Government is ready to dispatch more troops and warships to China if the fourth Chang Chun-Kawagoe meeting produces no results favourable to Japan on Wednesday.

News reached here recently that the Generalissimo has instructed Mr. Chang Chun, the Chinese Foreign Minister, to negotiate with Mr. Kawagoe, the Japanese Ambassador to China, in a friendly manner, under the fundamental principle of equality. On the other hand he is going to hold the first meeting of the National Defence Committee immediately after to-day's celebrations. General Chen Sheng has gone to Kweilin to invite General Pei Chung-hai to join the meeting on his behalf.

Chinese all over the country, as well as the overseas Chinese abroad, are closely watching the meeting of the Generalissimo and this Peking Government, General Tuen Ki-sui, but unfortunately he passed away there on March 21 of that year. In 1926, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek led the two Kwang troops on the northern expedition, and the Nanking Nationalist Gov-

German Press Comment

SOVIET MOVE CONDEMNED

Berlin: The Soviet Note to the President of the International non-intervention committee calls forth scathing comments from the German press, most of the papers featuring the news with full-page headlines such as: "Moscow's Threat," "Litvinoff's Blow at European Peace" and "Dangers of Soviet Intervention."

The general opinion is best summarised by the semi-official Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, which states that the Soviet action has only served to increase the anxieties of all those who, no matter on which side their sympathies may be in the Spanish civil war, do not desire to see the conflict extended. The Soviet step is barely-disguised intervention in Spain and conjures up just those dangers which the non-intervention agreement is aimed at avoiding.

The real motives of the Soviet step are clear, goes on the Korrespondenz, when its openly expressed disappointment at the military setbacks suffered by the Madrid Government are taken into consideration. This disappointment has evidently led to the idea that the revolutionary capital invested in Spain might be rescued if the Soviet Union threw its weight into the scales as a great Power. Withdrawal from the non-intervention pact would give the desired "legal" liberty of action for open intervention in support of Madrid. — Trans-Ocean Service.

SEARCHING ENQUIRY NEEDED

London: A communique issued at the close of yesterday's seven-hours meeting in London of the non-intervention committee stated that there was general agreement that it was imperative in the general interest that the complaints regarding outside assistance to the Spanish insurgents should be subjected to most searching examination with the greatest possible speed. The date of the next meeting of the committee has not yet been fixed. — British Wireless Service.

OFFICER IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Sub-Inspr. Hynes Injured

According to a message given out by the Shamshupo Police Station last evening, Sub-Inspector Hynes, who is in charge of the Taur Wan Police Station, ran into a tree while riding on a motor-cycle on the Castle Peak Road. Details were not available beyond the fact that the officer sustained a broken wrist and had to be taken to the Kowloon Hospital, where he was detained.

The report was received at Shamshupo shortly after 8.30 p.m., but it was not stated what time the accident occurred or whether Inspector Hynes was carrying any passengers at the time.

STOP PRESS

Talavera Delaraina, Yesterday. — The position in Madrid is regarded as serious following the successful conclusion of a series of guerrilla operations of great military importance conceived and directed personally by General Franco, leader of the insurgents.

The capture of Cebreros, following that of San Martin and Valdeletras, gives the Nationalists, for the first time, the use of a direct road between Avila and Toledo. The commander of the Madrid column, General Varela, is now free to proceed with his advance from Toledo and Maqueda to Madrid.

The danger to his left flank by raids of millitamen on the Talavera-Toledo road, from the north and south, is now practically eliminated by the cleaning up, in which fresh Moorish troops from Africa, legionaries, regulars and cavalry participated. — Reuter.

Jerusalem, Yesterday. — The Higher Committee has decided to call off the Palestine strike on Monday morning. — Reuter.
